Len Eshmont Award

Bill Ring, the club's outstanding special teams player and back-up running back, gained the San Francisco Forty Niners' most prestigious annual honor in 1983 — the Len Eshmont Award, by a vote of his teammates.

The award is given each year to the 49ers' player that best exemplifies the "inspiration and courageous play of Len Eshmont," an original Forty Niner from the '46 team, who later coached at Navy and Virginia before dying in 1957.

For more information on Bill Ring, the '83 Len Eshmont Award winner, see his bio elsewhere in this guide.

Stadium Information

The San Francisco 49ers begin their 14th year in Candlestick Park. Candlestick is one of 14 combination pro football and baseball stadiums used by NFL teams.

The "new" Candlestick was completed in 1972 (the 49ers played in the park while it was still under construction in 1971), when it was completely encircled, carpeted with AstroTurf, furnished throughout with comfortable chairs (no bleachers), and surrounded by additional parking space.

The stadium seats 61,413 for football. There are three major ticket plazas and entry levels. Every seat in the stadium is a chairtype, plastic unit for comfort and durability. Completely double-decked, the park features a 7,394-seat movable section.

In the spring of 1979, the artificial turf was replaced by natural grass.

Edward J. DeBartolo, Jr. — OWNER

With excitement and anticipation, Edward J. DeBartolo, Jr., enters his eighth season as owner of the San Francisco 49ers. His feelings are justified for in the previous seven seasons under his tutelage, the Niners have risen from challenger to champion, from also-ran to among the best in the NFL.

San Francisco's climb to the elite of the National Football League is a source of great pride for DeBartolo. After purchasing 90 percent of the team in 1977, at age 30, the youngest NFL owner endured seasons of 5-9 in '77 and consecutive 2-14 years in 1978-79. His perseverance in the coaching and personnel staffs began to translate into victories as the team recorded a 6-10 mark in 1980. Then came the charmed 1981 season that brought the Lombardi Trophy — symbolic of the League championship — to DeBartolo's club. After an injury-plagued down year in '82, San Francisco rebounded last season to take the title in the rough NFC Western Division and proceeded to the NFC title game (by defeating Detroit, 24-23, in the conference playoffs).

At the conclusion of the '83 season, DeBartolo reviewed his club: "My coach and this team are as good as any in football. I think they proved that by being among the final four. This team proved it has character."

His team is a direct reflection of his personality, as DeBartolo has emerged as an owner who is concerned and dedicated. Through the emotional trials and tribulations, he has remained steadfast. Likewise, his faith in the men he selected to guide the Niners — "The owner should give support and not meddle," says DeBartolo.

That support was expressed last year when DeBartolo relinquished his title of president, transferring those duties to head coach Bill Walsh. He has backed the efforts of Walsh and his staff to secure the best talent through the draft, by trade, or signing of veteran free agents. DeBartolo's approach to ownership has resulted in a stable, content staff of administrators directing his team.

"I will be involved in the decision making process, of course, but mainly I will rely on the judgments that will be made by the top-notch football people running the team."

As the Chief Executive Officer of the 49ers, DeBartolo's corporate responsibility only begins with the San Francisco football franchise, since he also is the President and Chief Administrative Officer of the worldwide Edward J. DeBartolo Corporation of Youngstown, Ohio. The later role demands nearly all of his attention and time.

Founded in the DeBartolo family hometown of Youngstown in 1948 by Edward J. DeBartolo, Sr., who is the father of the 49ers' owner, the DeBartolo Corporation has become one of America's great business success stories. It is the leading planner, builder, owner and operator of enclosed regional shopping malls in the world, malls that total more than 50 million square feet of retail space.

Anticipating America's move to suburbia in the late '40s, Edward Sr. acquired land and built malls on the crest of suburban expansion. And as one mall succeeded, it was used as collateral for another. And another. Today, there are more than 50 DeBartolo malls from Pennsylvania to California.

Company holdings also include the Toledo Foreign Trade Zone and Overseas Terminal, office complexes, hotels, banks, gas wells, orange groves, real estate, and America's finest thoroughbred race tracks, including luxurious Louisiana Downs in Shreveport. The DeBartolos also own the Pittsburgh Penguins of the national Hockey League, the Pittsburgh Spirit indoor soccer team, the Pittsburgh Civic Arena, and hold commercial interest in many banks, including a role as majority stockholder in three of them.

It was this dynasty that Edward Jr. grew up in, starting at the bottom as a teenager and arriving today as one of America's chief executives for a major corporation. Called Eddie by friends and associates, his rise to the top of the DeBartolo Corporation became accelerated upon graduation from Notre Dame in 1968. Prior to that, he had worked for his father in the company, beginning at age 12 gardening and shoveling snow at mall locations and continuing into high school and college as a laborer on the DeBartolo construction crews. "We have a family motto . . . 'work harder than you play' . . . and I have, right from the time I was a youngster," reports Ed Jr.

Following college in 1968, he began an executive training program that had him move from department to department, learning the many facets of the company. In 1971 he was appointed a vice president, and five years later was named executive vice president and assumed leadership of the mammoth in-house DeBartolo staff of some 300 engineers, architects, designers, financiers, leasing agents, lawyers, management and operation teams, along with advertising, public relations and marketing personnel. He was appointed President and Chief Administrative Officer in July, 1979.

Edward Jr. purchased the 49ers in 1977 from the Morabito Family of San Francisco, with Jane Morabito and Franklin Mieuli retaining five percent apiece as minority owners, which they remain today.

A lesser known, but just as important, aspect of Eddie's life is his charitable participation throughout the U.S. He received the 1982 Salvation Army Citation of Merit, that organization's highest annual honor and one that had previously been bestowed upon Dwight D. Eisenhower, Cecil B. DeMille, Helen Hayes, and William Randolph Hearst, among other notables. At 35, he was the youngest honoree in history.

DeBartolo has given generously of his time and influence to the St. Jude Childrens Research Hospital, having directed the Youngstown effort for actor Danny Thomas, an effort that netted the greatest sum of any city its size in the nation. He also is active in the Heart Fund and Cancer Crusade, with United Way, and has served as director for a Youngstown Youth Center and as a member of the Board of Trustees at Youngstown State University.

Born Nov. 6, 1946, Eddie is married to the former Cynthia Papalia, who prefers the nickname Candy, and who was his childhood sweetheart. They have three daughters, Lisa Marie (12/17/69), Tiffanie Lynne (11/27/70), and Nicole Anne (7/16/75).

Bill Walsh

PRESIDENT - HEAD COACH

Bill Walsh had an extremely successful first year in his new combined role as the team's president and head coach. And, in 1984, Walsh plans to continue to perform more as an "administrative coach, rather than a technical coach." Under the direction of Walsh, the 1983 49ers made their second postseason appearance in the last three years, and fell just four points shy of participating in their second Super Bowl in that time span.

This year, Walsh has constructed a team blended with youth and age, specialists and all-purpose performers. "In 1981, we won the NFL Championship basically on tremendous enthusiasm with a college-age football team," stated Walsh. "Now, this year, we have many of the same players, plus some added veterans giving us a much more mature team."

Among those 'added veterans' are Manu Tuiaosopo from the Seattle Seahawks, linebacker Frank LeMaster, acquired from Philadelphia; and cornerback Mario Clark (Buffalo Bills), players that should help a defense that was among the best in the NFL in 1983.

In addition to acquiring veteran players through offseason trades, Walsh and his staff selected a draft of college prospects that should serve as cornerstones for years to come. In drafting linebacker Todd Shell (No. 1), tight end John Frank (No. 2), guard Guy McIntyre (No. 3), nose tackle Michael Carter (5A), and safety/linebacker Jeff Fuller (5B), San Francisco selected bright, gifted athletes who potentially could become starters in the League. Drafting ninth round picks Derrick Harmon (9A) and Lee Miller (9B), and wide receivers Dave Moritz and Kirk Pendleton in the 10th and 11th rounds respectively, Walsh continued his tradition of selecting intelligent, skilled performers.

Entering his sixth year as head coach of the 49ers, Walsh has a formidable team molded to his liking. Offensively, San Francisco ranked fourth in the NFL with one of the better run-pass attacks in the League in '83. The hard-hitting defense rebounded from a poor showing in '82, to rank 10th and provide many important takeaways from the opposition.

Only seven players remain from the team Walsh adopted in 1979. Walsh's troops have developed and posted a 30-16 record (including playoffs) over the last three years. His stewardship was rewarded last year by owner Eddie J. De Bartolo, Jr., relinquishing the title of president and naming Walsh to that position. That move gave Walsh more responsibility than any other coach in the NFL.

In 1983, the San Francisco 49ers returned to the form Walsh envisioned while putting together his team: quick and aggressive on defense, and smart run-pass balance on offense with the ability for controlled explosion from anywhere on the field. With the additions of veteran running back Wendell Tyler, and rookie draft choice fullback Roger Craig, opposing teams now had to respect the ground attack, which opened the field for Walsh's highly sophisticated pass offense. Joe Montana's command of the Walsh passing system has vaulted him to the No. 1 ranking among all-time NFL passers entering 1984 . . . a tribute to the talent of Montana and the mind of Walsh.

Since becoming the Oakland Raiders' backfield coach in 1966 under then Head Coach Al Davis, Walsh has gained a reputation as a pass master. In addition to developing the highly acclaimed Montana, Walsh is generally given credit for the development of two of the AFC's top gunners, Cincinnati's Ken Anderson and San Diego's Dan Fouts. Anderson won two NFL passing titles under Walsh's tutelage when Walsh was an assistant with the Bengals in the late '60s and early '70s, and in one season as offensive coordinator in San Diego (1976). Fouts says Walsh turned his entire career around. Walsh also developed two NCAA passing champions (Guy Benjamin and Steve Dils) during his two years as head coach at Stanford (1977-78), and his list of either Pro Bowl or All-America pass receivers includes Bob Trumpy, Eric Crabtree, Chip Myers, Isaac Curtis, Charlie Joiner, James Lofton, Ken Margerum and Dwight Clark. He also is credited with cajoling top seasons out of quarterbacks Greg Cook, Sam Wyche, Virgil Carter and Steve DeBerg, and receivers Speedy Thomas, Pat Curran, Charle Young, Russ Francis, Earl Cooper and Freddie Solomon.

Bill Walsh's first coaching experience came as a graduate assistant at San Jose State. As an undergraduate in the early '50s, he had played both ways at end for Coach Bob Bronzan. He entered high school coaching in the San Francisco East Bay area at Fremont's Washington Union High School in 1957. By his second season there, his team was 9-1 and conference champion. Prior to that, Washington Union had been 1-26. It was a complete turnaround, and it would become a familiar pattern when Walsh again became a head coach two decades later.

He began a long apprenticeship as an assistant coach in 1960, when he became defensive coordinator on the staff of Coach Marv Levy at the University of California. In 1963 he moved across the Bay to Stanford as Coach John Ralston's administrative assistant (recruiting coordinator) and defensive backfield coach. In 1966 he joined the Raiders, then just over a year later, when the American Football League expanded into Cincinnati and Paul Brown was given a franchise there, Walsh became Brown's quarterbacks and receivers coach.

Following eight prosperous seasons with the Bengals, Walsh joined Coach Tommy Prothro for a year as offensive coordinator of the Chargers, then moved to Stanford in '77 as head coach. His two Stanford teams were 17-7 overall and captured bowl wins at the conclusion of both seasons — the Bluebonnet and Sun Bowls. Stanford had not played in a bowl game in five years prior to '77.

Forty Niners' Owner DeBartolo hired Walsh as the 11th head coach in San Francisco history, Jan. 9, 1979, and handed him a team that had gone 31-55 in the 86 games prior to Walsh's arrival, an expansion-like team of talent that had finished 2-14 in 1978 and near the bottom of the league in nearly every offensive statistical category.

Walsh's first team finished 2-14, but then the 49ers' record has steadily climbed to 36-26, including an NFL-best 16-3 in the championship '81 year that saw the 49ers also set club records of longest overall winning streak (7 games) and longest road winning streak (6 games). Walsh was the consensus NFL Coach-of-the-Year in '81.

Bill Walsh was born Nov. 30, 1931, in Los Angeles. Following his sophomore year in high school, his parents moved to Oregon for one year, then moved to Hayward, Calif., in the San Francisco East Bay area, where Bill finished high school.

Following graduation from Hayward High and two years at San Mateo Junior College, he enrolled at San Jose State, where he majored in education. He obtained his master's degree in 1959 and put in a two-year hitch in the U.S. Army.

A tennis enthusiast and a constant reader of current events and historical non-fiction works, Bill lives with his wife, Geri, and daughter, Elizabeth (5-28-71), in Menlo Park, Calif. Bill and Geri also have two grown sons — Steve (12-27-55) and Craig (7-10-59).

John E. McVay

VICE PRESIDENT-GENERAL MANAGER

As vice president and general manager, John E. McVay's duality of responsibility extends from directing day-to-day operations, to acquisition of new players. He handles both roles with the same supreme competence displayed since his hiring by the team in 1979. McVay was named the team's director of player personnel in January of that year, and served in that capacity until he was promoted to director of football operations in the summer of '80. When he took on the role of administrative vice president at the conclusion of the championship season in

'81, McVay became chief administrator (under Bill Walsh) for the seven departments (Marketing, Scouting, Public Relations, Business, Tickets, Training, and Equipment) that compose the 49ers' organization. Last May, John was promoted to his current position of vice president and general manager.

McVay's knowledge of talent, and his ability to secure players, as the club's chief negotiator for all contracts has been instrumental in the success of the Niners. Along with President-Head Coach Bill Walsh, the tandem has developed one of the premier franchises in the NFL. To acquire that talent, McVay oversees the team's college draft, pro scouting, all trades, free agent signings, and waiver procedures.

McVay's firm, yet careful, handling of the 49ers' non-football operations has provided stability in the San Francisco front office. He currently is in negotiations with Redwood City (along with Ken Flower, vice president for marketing and community affairs) to relocate and expand the Niners' training and office facilities. McVay reports directly to Walsh, and Niners' Owner Edward J. DeBartolo, Jr., on all club matters.

A native of Bellaire, Ohio, and a product of famous high school football town Massillon, Ohio, McVay came to the 49ers after having served the New York Giants as head coach for two and one-half seasons (1976-78).

He had been hired by Giants' Owner Wellington Mara in 1975 as an assistant coach in charge of research and development, but was elevated to head coach in the middle of the '76 season when Bill Arnsparger was released. His won-lost record with the Giants was 14-23.

Prior to joining the Giants, McVay was the head coach and general manager of the Memphis Southmen of the World Football League, where his teams were 24-7 in the year and one-half that league existed. McVay had left the University of Dayton, where he was head football coach for nine years (1965-73), and athletic director in '72 and '73, to join the Southmen.

McVay excelled as a player before entering coaching and administrative work. He was an All-Ohio center as a Massillon schoolboy, and an All-Midwest selection and two-time team MVP as a center at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, where he played for both Woody Hayes and Ara Parseghian. Because of John's lack of size, Hayes awarded McVay Miami's last available football scholarship his freshman year, yet John went on to become a four-year regular for the Redskins. He captained the team as a senior, and today is a member of that school's athletic Hall of Fame.

McVay went from Miami to become one of its 60-plus "Cradle of Coaches" alumni who have been successful collegiate and professional football coaches and administrators throughout the U.S. and Canada.

His coaching career began with a three-year stint at Lancaster (Ohio) High School, and he moved to Franklin High (Ohio) for one year, before a five-year stay (41-7) at Canton (Ohio) Central Catholic High School. From the prep ranks he joined Duffy Daugherty's staff at Michigan State as an assistant in 1962 and stayed three years. From MSU, McVay took over the Dayton post, and led the Flyers to their first winning grid season in ten years when they finished 8-2 in 1966.

John and his wife, Lee, have four grown sons (Rick Robinson & John Jr., Jim, and Tim McVay) and live in nearby Belmont, Calif. They also have four grandsons.

VICE PRESIDENT FOR MARKETING AND COMMUNITY AFFAIRS

Ken Flower was promoted last spring to vice president for marketing and community affairs for the 49ers. The 52-year-old Flower had been director of marketing and community affairs for the Niners since 1981.

Ken began his administrative career with San Francisco in 1976 as a consultant for the team's radio and preseason television broadcasts. He was elevated to director of advertising in 1980, when he took on additional duties of securing advertisers for Gameday Magazine (then called PRO!). Flower assumed directorship of marketing and community affairs prior to the 1981 championship season. With that promotion came added responsibilities and contact with local civic and business organizations.

A native San Franciscan, Ken is a graduate of Lowell High and Menlo College. An outstanding basketball player, and member of the Menlo College Hall of Fame, Flower served as team captain on the 1953-54 basketball squads at the University of Southern California. He was the Southern California Collegiate Player-of-the-Year both seasons at USC, in addition to being selected All-Pacific Coast and All-America.

After taking his degree at Southern Cal, Flower entered the U.S. Air Force as a First Lieutenant, and coached the U.S. Air Force All-Star Basketball Team to the AAU Championship in 1957.

Ken worked as sales account executive for CBS Films, based in New York and San Francisco (1958-61). He later moved over to ABC-TV in sales management (1961-69), and served as vice president of sales and marketing for NFL Films (1969-76). Ken also was a sports communications consultant to the Hyatt Hotel Corp., and a media consultant with the performing group "Up With People", before assuming his full-time duties with the 49ers.

He and his wife, Alvina, live in Sausalito, Calif., and have two sons and one daughter.

George Seifert — DEFENSIVE COORDINATOR

George Seifert, the 49ers' defensive coordinator begins his fifth season of coaching in the NFL (the first three as San Francisco's secondary coach) following 15 years in the collegiate ranks.

After graduating from Utah (1963), Seifert served a six-month tour of duty with the U.S. Army. He returned to Utah as a graduate assistant coach in 1964. Then, in 1965, George was named head coach at Westminster College in Salt Lake City.

He moved on to assistant positions at Iowa (1966) and Oregon (1967-71), before joining Stanford University's staff (1972-74) as secondary coach (transforming the defensive backfield into the Pac-8 Conference's best statistically in both '72 and '73).

Seifert left Stanford in 1975 to become head coach at Cornell University (1975-76), but returned to Stanford to join Bill Walsh's staff in 1977. The Cardinal pass defense was second in the Pac-10 in both '78 and '79.

In 1980, George joined Walsh again, this time with the 49ers as secondary coach.

A native of San Francisco, and a graduate of Poly High School there, Seifert was born Jan. 22, 1940. He and his wife, Linda, have two children (Eve and Jason) and live in Sunnyvale, Calif.

Jerry Attaway — PHYSICAL DEVELOPMENT

Jerry Attaway begins his second season as the 49ers' coordinator for physical development, following five years in a similar capacity at the University of Southern California.

Attaway is a product of UC-Davis and Cal State-Sacramento. An injury cut short his football career at UC-Davis, and he finished his undergraduate work in physical education at Sacramento State in 1972.

Following graduation, he served as an assistant coach at the College of Idaho for three years and then spent the next two seasons as an assistant at Utah State, prior to his USC stint.

During his first three years at Southern Cal, Jerry was the assistant offensive line coach as well as coordinator for physical development. He concentrated on those latter duties his last two years with the Trojans. Attaway's first coaching job was with Paul Hackett (fellow 49ers' assistant) as freshman coach at UC-Davis in the late '60s and they also worked together at USC.

Jerry was born Jan. 3, 1946, in Susanville, Calif. He is single and lives in San Carlos, Calif.

Paul Hackett — QUARTERBACKS/RECEIVERS

Paul Hackett, who enters his 14th season of coaching in 1984, joined the 49ers during the 1983 offseason as assistant coach in charge of quarterbacks and receivers, following two years with the Cleveland Browns.

Just a year after leading the Far Western Conference in passing (1969) to cap a top-flight collegiate playing career, Hackett began his coaching career at his alma mater — UC-Davis in 1970.

Following two seasons at Davis, Paul moved to a post at the University of California (1972-75), where he coached the late Joe Roth and All-America Steve Bartkowski (Falcons). Bartkowski led the NCAA in passing in '74, while Roth led the Pac-8 in passing during Hackett's final year at Cal, 1975.

In 1976, Paul was named quarterbacks coach at the University of Southern California, where from '76 through 1980 his pupils included Vince Evans (MVP of the '77 Rose Bowl — Bears), Rob Hertel (Eagles), and Paul McDonald (Browns). McDonald set 17 USC, Pac-10 and NCAA records under Hackett's guidance and won the '78 Pac-10 passing title as well.

Hackett coached the Browns' quarterbacks during 1981 and '82.

Paul is married (Elizabeth) with two children (David and Nathaniel). They make their home in Redwood City, Calif. He was born July 5, 1947, in Burlington, Vt.

Norb Hecker — LINEBACKERS

The 49ers' linebacking mentor since 1979 ('84 is his sixth season with the Niners), Norb Hecker celebrates his 27th year in professional football as a player and coach.

As a player, Hecker was a Little All-America offensive end at Baldwin-Wallace College in Berea, Ohio, and his professional career began with Los Angeles, where he played both offensive end and defensive back (1951-53) with the Rams. He spent a season in Toronto (Canadian Football League) in 1954, before signing with Washington (for three seasons, 1955-57).

Norb returned to the CFL as a player-coach in 1958 with the Hamilton Tiger Cats, and the next season joined Vince Lombardi as an assistant coach in Green Bay. With the Packers (1959-65), he was part of the team's glory years of the '60s. Following his Green Bay tenure, Hecker spent two and one-half seasons as head coach of the Atlanta Falcons (1966-68) and three years (1969-71) as defensive coordinator for the New York Giants. He left the NFL in 1972 and spent seven seasons as an assistant coach at Stanford University, his last two coaching on Bill Walsh's staff there. Hecker came to the 49ers with Walsh in early '79.

Co-founder of the NFL Players Association, Norb was born in Olmstead Falls, Ohio, May 26, 1927. He and his wife, Barbara, have five grown children — (Douglas, Jeffrey, Jane, Karen, and Cheryl) and three grandchildren — and live in Redwood City, Calif.

Sherman Lewis — RUNNING BACKS

Sherman Lewis, an assistant coach at Michigan State University for 14 seasons, enters his second year in the NFL as the 49ers' running backs' coach.

An assistant with MSU from 1969 through 1982, Sherman was the assistant head coach and defensive coordinator for the Spartans his final three years there. He was a member of the staffs of Duffy Dougherty, Denny Stolz, Darryl Rogers, and Frank "Muddy" Waters at MSU.

The second runner-up for the 1963 Heisman Trophy (behind Roger Staubach of Navy and Billy Lothridge of Georgia Tech), Lewis was a two-way All-America halfback in football, and earned Football News College Player-of-the-Year honors in 1963. He was also a standout track and field performer for the Spartans.

Born in Louisville, Ky., on June 29, 1942, Sherm and his wife, Toni, have two sons (Kip and Eric). He earned his masters degree from Michigan State in educational administration in 1974.

Bobb McKittrick — OFFENSIVE LINE

Bobb McKittrick enters his 13th season in the NFL and his sixth with the San Francisco 49ers as the coach for the offensive line.

McKittrick has been coaching professional football since 1971 when he was an assistant with the Los Angeles Rams under Tommy Prothro (1971-72). He took a sabbatical from football in 1973 to do graduate work at his alma mater (Oregon State), before rejoining Prothro in the NFL at San Diego (1974-78). He also coached the Chargers offensive line under Don Coryell at the conclusion of the '78 season.

Bobb began his coaching career in 1961 as an assistant at Oregon State, after three years in the U.S. Marine Corps as an officer. He coached at Oregon State (1961-64) and at UCLA (1965-70) on the collegiate level.

McKittrick was born in Baker, Ore., Dec. 29, 1935. He and his wife, Teckla, have two sons (Ladd and Mike), and live in San Mateo, Calif. Ladd is a senior QB at Oregon State University for '84.

49ers Strike Gold!

The 49ers won Super Bowl XVI to culminate a 16-win season, defeating the Cincinnati Bengals in the process, 49 days after they had defeated the Bengals during the regular season, in the 49th NFL World Championship game in history, on a date 134 years to the day that prospectors discovered gold for the first time in Northern California, at Sutter's Mill, Coloma, California, January 24, 1848.

Bill McPherson — DEFENSIVE LINE

Entering his seventh year of professional football coaching, Bill McPherson is in his sixth season with the 49ers — one as linebackers coach and the last five (counting 1984) as defensive line coach.

A defensive tackle at Santa Clara in the early '50s, McPherson began coaching in 1956 at his high school alma mater, San Jose's Bellarmine Prep (1956-62), following Army service in Korea. He later was the defensive coordinator at the University of Santa Clara (1963-74) for 12 years before moving to UCLA (1975-77). McPherson coached the defensive line with both the Broncos and Bruins.

McPherson was inducted into Santa Clara University's Athletic Hall of Fame as a player and coach in May, 1984.

At UCLA, Bill worked with Dick Vermeil, whom he later joined as an assistant with the Philadelphia Eagles. McPherson was linebackers coach for Vermeil in Philadelphia (1978) for one year, before returning to his native state of California and joining the 49ers.

Bill and his wife, Elsie, have five children (Michael, Claire, Joanne, Marianne, and Patrick) and live in San Jose. He was born there Oct. 24, 1931.

Ray Rhodes — SECONDARY

Ray Rhodes, who served under George Seifert as the 49ers' assistant secondary coach in 1981 and 1982, is in his second season as San Francisco's backfield coach.

Ray entered the coaching profession in 1981, just in time for the 49ers' first World Championship, after seven seasons in the league as a fine, all-around player.

Rhodes, who played defensive back for San Francisco in 1980, came to the 49ers after six seasons with the New York Giants, where he played both offense and defense. Drafted by the Giants in the tenth round of '74, Ray played wide receiver until 1977 when he was switched to defensive back. He led all NFC receivers in average yards gained (20.7) per catch in 1975.

A collegiate running back at TCU for two years before ending his career at Tulsa as a wide receiver, kick returner and running back, Ray also earned letters in track & field at Tulsa.

Rhodes, a native of Mexia, Tex., was born Oct. 20, 1950. He and his wife, Carmen, have three daughters (Detra, Candra, Tynesha) and live in Fremont, Calif.

Fred vonAppen — SPECIAL TEAMS

Fred vonAppen, a former Stanford assistant coach under Bill Walsh, joined the 49ers during the 1983 offseason as special teams coach.

vonAppen worked for Walsh during Stanford's bowl years of 1977 and '78, then left when Walsh came to the 49ers in 1979. At that time, Fred joined the Green Bay Packers as defensive line coach.

In addition to Stanford and Green Bay, Fred has also coached high school and college in Oregon and at three other universities around the country.

He has coached at Linfield College in McMinnville, Ore., where he was an all-league selection as a player and where he received both his bachelor's (1964) and master's (1965) degrees. He also has worked at Arkansas ('69 and '81), UCLA ('70), Virginia Tech ('71), Oregon (1972-76), Stanford (1977-78 and '82), and Green Bay (1979 and '80).

Now in his 21st year of coaching, vonAppen is a native of Eugene, Ore. (Mar. 22, 1942). He and his wife (Sally) have three children (Mark, Molly, and Joe). They live in Cupertino, Calif.

Tommy Hart — ASSISTANT DEFENSIVE LINE

Tommy Hart, a former all-pro defensive end for the 49ers, was named assistant defensive line coach during the 1983 offseason.

Hart, who retired from the NFL in 1980 following 13 seasons, assists defensive line coach Bill McPherson.

A product of Macon, Ga., and Morris Brown College, Hart became one of the 49ers' greatest defensive ends in history after coming out of college in 1968 as a tenth round draft choice. He was the 49ers' Len Eshmont Award winner in 1972 and '76 (along with Jimmy Johnson and Paul Hofer, the only 49ers to win the award twice) and was named to the '76 Pro Bowl after registering 16 sacks that season, including six in one game against the Rams. Tommy was also named all-pro that year by the PFWA and NEA.

He has operated Tommy Hart's Sport Store in Redwood City since his playing days, after concluding his career in New Orleans in 1980, following two seasons in Chicago (1978 and '79).

Hart was born Nov. 11, 1944. He is married (Cherrie Ann) and the Harts' have four daughters (Sebrina, Ywakita, Tanya, and Crystal). They live in Redwood City, Calif.

Lindsay McLean — TRAINER

Lindsay McLean has been an athletic trainer for 24 years, including 11 as head trainer at the University of Michigan. He joined the 49ers as co-trainer in 1979 and was named the team's head trainer in 1983.

Before he joined Michigan's staff (1968-78), McLean served as head trainer at UC-Santa Barbara (1963-64) and San Jose State (1965-67). He was named College Trainer-of-the-Year in 1976.

A native of Nashville and a 1960 graduate of Vanderbilt, McLean received his certification in physical therapy from Herman Hospital in Houston, Tex., in 1961.

He entered the training profession in '61 as an assistant at Michigan (1961-62) prior to joining the UC-Santa Barbara staff.

McLean, who served as chairman of the National Athletic Trainers Association Certification Committee for 10 years and was the U.S. Olympic Team trainer for the 1976 Winter Games, was born June 28, 1938. He is single and lives in Redwood City.

John Miller — ASSISTANT TRAINER

John Miller is in his fifth season with the 49ers, third as the team's assistant athletic trainer.

A 1980 graduate of Penn State (B.S. in health and physical education), John was that school's Marshall (Valedictorian) for the College of Health, Physical Education and Recreation in May of '80. He earned his master of arts degree in physical therapy from Stanford in 1982.

Miller joined the 49ers in 1980 as a parttime assistant trainer prior to moving up to the post of (fulltime) assistant athletic trainer with the Niners in '82. He served as an athletic trainer at the Seattle Seahawks' summer training camp in 1979.

John was born Jan. 17, 1958, in Fargo, N.D. He is married (Susan) and lives in Menlo Park, Calif.

Chico Norton — EQUIPMENT MANAGER EMERITUS

Forrest "Chico" Norton has become a San Francisco institution. Chico, whose nickname comes from his hometown of Chico, Calif., begins his 30th year as the 49ers' equipment manager — first as equipment manager emeritus. He has been with the organization longer than any other employee.

Born Nov. 24, 1919, Norton first entered professional athletics when he went to work for the San Francisco Seals baseball team in 1948. He joined the 49ers in 1955.

He and his wife, Sylvia, live in San Francisco. They have seven grown children.

Bronco Hinek — EQUIPMENT MANAGER

Frank Bronco Hinek is the team's new equipment manager for 1984, following one season (1983) as assistant equipment manager to Chico Norton. He joined the 49ers' staff during the 1983 offseason following 14 seasons with the San Diego Chargers.

Born in Milwaukee, Wis., where his father (Frank) worked as an equipment manager for Marquette University (and later the Oakland Raiders — 1960-62), Bronco was the chief clubhouse attendant with the Chargers for four seasons (1969-72), and assistant equipment manager with that club from '72 through 1982.

He got his start in the field helping his father at Marquette and Oakland (and serving as a camp aid with the Los Angeles Rams — 1968-69).

Bronco married Trish Bernie of Moraga, Calif., in July, '83.

John Ayers • 68

GUARD • WEST TEXAS STATE • 8TH YEAR
HT: 6-5 • WT: 265 • BORN: 4-14-53 • (D-8 IN '76)

PRO: John Ayers rebounded in 1983 from a knee injury sustained at the conclusion of the '82 season. He started all 18 games last year, (including the two playoff contests). John now has started the last 25 games for the Niners (including postseason). The Texan had a string of 52 consecutive starts broken when he was forced out of the Niners-Broncos clash (11-19-82). That game marked the only 49er contest in the last 108 that Ayers has not played. He has started 92 of the last 95 games entering 1984. "John Ayers is a very underrated player who could well be the best pass protecting guard in the NFL. He is capable of dealing with the best the NFL has to offer," states Bill Walsh. Selected in the eighth round of the 1976 draft as a tackle, Ayers has played each position on the offensive line. He broke into the starting lineup in 1978, playing six games at guard and eight at tackle. John has been at his current left guard position since 1979.

COLLEGE: Ayers was an All-Missouri Valley Conference selection as a defensive end at West Texas State in 1975 (as a senior). He lettered for the Buffaloes in 1973-74-75 after transferring there from the University of Texas in Austin. Ayers started 32 consecutive games for WTSU.

PERSONAL: An All-Texas schoolboy team honoree as a senior, John was a standout athlete at Carrizo Springs High School. He and his wife, Laurel, have two children — one son, J.T. (6-5-79) and one daughter, Jolee (6-4-82). They make their offseason home in Caynon, Tex. John was born in San Antonio, Tex. His NFL stats include a 1978 fumble recovery and a tackle following an interception (vs. Atlanta 11-8-81).

STATS: Regular season games/starts - 1976 (missed '76 season on injured reserve), 1977 (14/1), 1978 (16/14), 1979 (16/16), 1980 (16/16), 1981 (16/16), 1982 (8/8), 1983 (16/16), Career (102/87); Postseason games/starts - 1981 (3/3), 1983 (2/2), Career (5/5).

Guy Benjamin • 7

QUARTERBACK • STANFORD • 7TH YEAR
HT: 6-3 • WT: 210 • BORN: 6-27-55 • (TRADE IN '81)

PRO: Guy Benjamin's role with the 49ers is similar to that of an understudy in a Broadway play — he must be ready in the wings to fill in and perform on a moment's notice. Benjamin did just that in the '83 season opener when Joe Montana was knocked out of the contest late in the third quarter. Guy responded by completing five of 10 passes for 101 yards, including a 73-yard touchdown pass to Earl Cooper. The scoring toss to Cooper was the longest pass completion of Benjamin's career. Additionally, Guy had a game-winning touchdown strike to Dwight Clark nullified by penalty in that Eagle contest. The seventh-year quarterback finished the '83 season with seven completions (of 12 passing attempts) for 111 yards and one touchdown, while playing in four games. Benjamin was a second round pick of the Miami Dolphins in 1978 — the third quarterback selected (behind Doug Williams and Matt Cavanaugh) and 51st player chosen overall. He was traded to New Orleans for a fourth round draft choice (9-1-80) before another trade brought him back to the Bay Area where he had played college ball for Walsh at Stanford. Guy was acquired from New Orleans (7-13-81) for a sixth round draft choice in the '82 NFL draft.

COLLEGE: Guy led the nation in passing as a senior at Stanford under Walsh (208 of 330 for 2,790 yards and 19 TDs for a 63.1 completion percentage). His 48 career TDs at Stanford places him third on the all-time Cardinal charts behind Jim Plunkett (52) and John Elway (77). He was an Academic All-America selection in political science, and was the 1977 Wiseman Trophy winner (award given nationally by Victoria Station Restaurants to their "player-of-the-year"). Benjamin capped his collegiate career with a three-touchdown, 269-yard (23 of 36 passes) performance in a 24-14 win over LSU in the Sun Bowl.

PERSONAL: Born in Hollywood, Calif., in 1955, Benjamin attended James Monroe High School in Sepulveda, Calif. His full name is Guy Emory Benjamin and he calls Montara, Calif., his current home. Guy earned his bachelor of arts degree in political science from Stanford in 1978.

Richard Blackmore • 44

CORNERBACK • MISSISSIPPI STATE • 6TH YEAR
HT: 5-10 • WT: 174 • BORN: 8-14-56 • (FA IN '83)

PRO: Richard Blackmore's playoff experience while with the Philadelphia Eagles (1979-82) gave the 49ers — in 1983 — additional depth, experience, and knowledge of playing under the sudden-elimination style of pressure. Blackmore was acquired on waivers from Philadelphia prior to the sixth game of 1983 — Los Angeles (10-9-83). He played in the final 11 regular season games with the Niners and started against Tampa Bay (12-4-83). "Richard proved to be quite an asset in the final season surge," stated Bill Walsh. "He performed well when he had the opportunity." Blackmore tallied 15 total tackles and had three passes defended during the regular season. The former Mississippi State cornerback also was credited with two unassisted tackles in postseason contests. He had played in 57 consecutive games with the Eagles prior to his release during the 1983 preseason. Richard has five career interceptions, including a 20-yard TD return against Houston (12-19-82).

COLLEGE: Blackmore earned a B.S. degree in commercial art at Mississippi State, while earning four letters there as a defensive back and punt returner under coach Bob Tyler.

PERSONAL: Born in Vicksburg, Miss., he attended Vicksburg High School. Richard is employed during the offseason as head track coach and recruiter at Northwest Mississippi Junior College, where his wife, Autherine, is a child care instructor. His hobbies include tennis, backgammon, racquetball and basketball. The Blackmores reside in Senatobia, Miss.

Dwaine Board • 76

DEFENSIVE END • NORTH CAROLINA A&T • 5TH YEAR
HT: 6-5 • WT: 248 • BORN: 11-29-56 • (FA IN '79)

PRO: Having Dwaine Board in the lineup usually spells victory for the 49ers. His impact on the final outcome of San Francisco games is more than mere chance. The Niners have a .737 winning percentage in the last 38 games Board has started. His ability to stay healthy has directly coincided with the success of the team. During the Niners championship season of 1981 Board was active for all 16 regular season games and three postseason tilts. "Pee Wee" (as he is known) was out of action for most of the 6-10 1980 season (left knee), and '82 when the team dipped to 3-6 (right knee). With Board in the lineup, since 1980, the 49ers are 30-11 and without his services the Niners are 6-15. Here's the breakdown: 1980 (3-0 with, 3-10 without), 1981 (16-3 with), 1982 (0-1 with, 3-5 without), 1983 (11-7 with). Board played in every game last year, turning in a career best 13 sacks for 108 yards. His totals were bettered only by teammate Fred Dean among NFC pass rushers. The fifth-year pro kept up his sack pace during the 1983 playoffs, recording two for 14 yards. The ball-hungry defensive end led the team with five fumble recoveries. He provided the impetus that led to victory over the Rams (10-23-83) with his sack, forced fumble, fumble recovery, and touchdown (all in one) play in the Los Angeles endzone. Dwaine represents one of the many players acquired by San Francisco as free agents that have emerged into productive players (Lawrence Pillers, Bill Ring, Mike Wilson, Jack Reynolds, etc.). "Dwaine is one of the fine defensive ends in football. It has been documented how much his leadership and performance are invaluable to the 49ers," states Bill Walsh. Board originally was drafted by Pittsburgh in the fifth round of 1979 and waived by the Steelers (8-27-79) in Pittsburgh's final cut that year. San Francisco claimed Board on waivers and he made a surprisingly easy adjustment from small college linebacker to NFL defensive end with the 49ers in '79. He earned a starting nod by mid-season and became the Niners' most successful rookie, leading the team in sacks.

COLLEGE: Board was a four-year starter for North Carolina A&T at linebacker and was selected to the Mutual Black Radio All-America Team three times (1975, '76, '77). An All-Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference first team selection his final two seasons, he was voted the MEAC Defensive Player-of-the-Year in 1977.

PERSONAL: Dwaine is a graduate of Franklin County High School in Rocky Mount, Va., where he was born. He makes his offseason home in Redwood City, Calif. Board received his bachelor of science degree in industrial technology from North Carolina A&T in Greensboro in 1979. His nickname is "Pee-Wee" ("You should see my brother" is his explanation).

Dan Bunz • 57

LINEBACKER • CAL STATE-LONG BEACH • 6TH YEAR
HT: 6-4 • WT: 225 • BORN: 10-7-55 • (D-1B IN '78)

PRO: Dan Bunz' request for stability and good health hopefully will be answered in 1984. Bunz will be called upon to play strong-side outside linebacker fulltime this year after beginning the transition from inside linebacker at the conclusion of the '83 season. The former No. 1B selection (in 1978) hopes the change in position will also keep him out of the training room. Bunz was placed on the "physically unable to perform" list (8-16-83) with a severe groin injury — originally sustained during the 49ers-Raiders season opener of 1982. That injury forced Dan to the injured reserve list for the final seven games of the strike-shortened '82 season, and he reported to training camp last year with inflammation and pain in the abductor muscles of the groin which eliminated his ability to practice or play. Bunz was activated from the "PUP" list prior to the Rams game in Anaheim (10-23-83). The Long Beach State product was credited with two tackles against the Rams in his first game action since Sept. 12, 1982. Bunz concluded the '83 season with five total tackles in nine regular season games and one stop in two postseason tilts. "Dan has got all the ability and equipment to be an outstanding player at his new position," states Bill Walsh. "He is powerful and he's quick, and I think he will play on the tight end very effectively, but it probably will take as much as two months of training. His development at outside linebacker will be important to the team." Dan would like to return to the play he displayed early in his career. Entering 1982, Bunz had averaged 104 tackles a season and had led the team in total tackles in each of his first three years. Of his 437 career tackles, six do not count officially in his statistical records because they came in postseason play. And, among those "extra six" is one that will live forever on video and in the minds of 49ers' fans everywhere. His hit on Cincinnati's Charles Alexander (at the one-inch line) during San Francisco's historic third-quarter goal-line-stand in Super Bowl XVI was a career highlight. It was one of three key plays Dan participated in during that stand. Bunz was named to the NFL All-Rookie Team in his first season.

COLLEGE: As a three-year starter at Cal State-Long Beach, Bunz recorded 448 tackles, including 72 solo and 99 assists as a senior. He was voted MVP in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association and was honorable mention All-America. He played in both the Senior Bowl and East-West Shrine game.

PERSONAL: Dan graduated from Oakmont High School in Roseville, Calif., and makes his offseason home on a ranch east of Sacramento (just minutes from the Niners' summer training site at Sierra College in Rocklin). Both Rocklin and Roseville had a "Dan Bunz Day" following the 49ers' 1981 World Championship season. Dan was born in Roseville, where he opened a new restaurant this past summer. He played a bit part in the movie "North Dallas Forty" following the '78 season. Dan married the former Elizabeth Anne Roullier (7-7-84) this past offseason.

Matt Cavanaugh • 6

QUARTERBACK • PITTSBURGH • 7TH YEAR
HT: 6-2 • WT: 212 • BORN: 10-27-56 • (TRADE IN '83)

PRO: Matt Cavanaugh spent 1983 in residency with the 49ers. The former second round draft choice of the New England Patriots (1978) was acquired by the Niners in mid-August. Playing in the multi-dimensional offense of coach Bill Walsh requires careful study and practice. Those needs are intensified if your position is quarterback. So Matt watched while Joe Montana and Guy Benjamin directed the attack. But 1984 figures to be quite different for the ex-Pitt Panther. After the year of indoctrination, Cavanaugh is expected to battle with Benjamin and Bryan Clark for the back-up quarterback spot, and Matt will bring battle experience acquired from New England where he played in 52 games. Cavanaugh started the first three games for the Patriots during the strike-shortened 1982 season. He threw three touchdown passes in those games before being replaced in the starting lineup by Steve Grogan. Cavanaugh connected with Stanley Morgan on the longest pass play of 1982, a 75-yarder during a relief appearance late in the season. Matt started eight games for the Patriots in 1981. He established career highs with 42 passing attempts and 325 yards against the Steelers (9-27-81). The seven-year veteran's best year with New England was 1980 when he set a club record hitting 60 percent of his passes (63-105), while starting four of the last five games that season. He threw nine touchdowns and averaged 8.43 yards per completion on the year.

COLLEGE: Matt held many Pitt passing records, including most touchdown passes in a season (15) and career (31), until they were surpassed by Dan Marino (Miami Dolphins). As a junior, he was named Most Valuable Player in Pitt's Sugar Bowl victory over Georgia that secured the national title for the Panthers. Matt completed 23 of 36 passes for 378 yards and four touchdowns (in his senior year) in a Gator Bowl victory over Clemson. He graduated from Pitt with a B.S. degree in administration of justice.

PERSONAL: He was born Matthew Andrew Cavanaugh in Youngstown, Ohio, and played football for Youngstown Chaney High. Matt met his wife (Nancy) while she was working as a secretary at Bryant College, the summer training site of the New England Patriots. The Cavanaugh's have a baby girl, Amy Elizabeth (7-12-83). He was active in many civic events in the New England area and earned the Frito-Lay Community Service Award in 1981.

Bryan Clark • 15

QUARTERBACK • MICHIGAN STATE • 2ND YEAR
HT: 6-2 • WT: 196 • BORN: 7-27-60 • (D-9 IN '82)

PRO: Injuries have shadowed the professional career of Bryan Clark. For two consecutive seasons that shadow has emerged from the confines of San Diego Jack Murphy Stadium to pay Clark a visit.

During his rookie year in 1982, Clark suffered a severe ankle sprain against the Chargers (8-28-82). Prior to that injury, the former Michigan State Spartan had completed 20 of 26 preseason tosses for 193 yards and two touchdowns. He missed the first two games that season due to the ankle injury. Last year Clark had connected on 7 of 12 preseason passes for 68 yards in extended duty versus the Chargers (8-20-83) prior to separating a shoulder trying to recover a teammate's fumble. Both injuries occurred in the Niners' third preseason game of the summer in San Diego, and as fortune would have it, San Francisco is scheduled to play the Chargers during the third week of the 1984 preseason. "Bryan Clark has a future in the NFL." That comment comes from Bill Walsh, possibly the top quarterback mentor in football today. "Bryan played well as a rookie," says 49ers' No. 1 QB Joe Montana. "He has poise, a good strong arm, and can read defenses."

COLLEGE: Bryan passed for 2,725 yards from 1978 through '81 for the Spartans of Michigan State (including 1,521 yards in his senior season on 109 completions in 204 attempts). As team MVP in 1981, Clark threw 14 touchdown passes and carried the pigskin 48 times for 119 yards and a score.

PERSONAL: The son of Monte Clark (head coach and director of football operations for the Detroit Lions), Bryan was born Monte Bryan Clark in Redwood City, Calif., July 27, 1960. The senior Clark played with the 49ers (1959-60-61) and was head coach in San Francisco in 1976. Redwood City is the home of the Niners' year-round training headquarters. The 1982 and '83 summer training camps were not Bryan's first. He spent many a summer (under his father) as a ball boy and aide in the equipment room for several NFL teams.

Dwight Clark • 87

WIDE RECEIVER • CLEMSON • 6TH YEAR
HT: 6-4 • WT: 210 • BORN: 1-8-57 • (D-10A IN '79)

PRO: Dwight Clark is arguably the best "possession-type" receiver currently playing in the League. His 297 receptions over the last four years is best among all wide receivers during that period. Only San Diego Charger Wes Chandler, a "deep-threat" receiver, has more receiving yards (3,994) than Clark's 3,849 among wide receivers since 1980. During this same four-year period, Dwight has averaged 74.2 catches and 962.2 yards (nearly 13 yards per reception) per year, and has contributed 68.4 total yards (receiving & rushing) per game. Clark's exploits have not gone unnoticed by Bill Walsh: "Dwight is one of the top performers in the game today, and possibly of all time. He could be Hall of Fame material. He is the ultimate as far as the true competitive athlete." In 1983, Clark led the Niners in receptions and receiving yardage for the third consecutive year. In addition to his 70 catches and 840 yards, the rangy receiver scored eight times on pass receptions to lead the team. Dwight was fourth in the NFC in receptions and seventh in receiving yards last year. The valuable wide-out had ten games of four or more receptions last season, and totaled more than 80 yards receiving in four contests. He extended his team-record streak to 56 consecutive regular season games with at least one pass reception. With eight touchdowns in '83, the battery of Montana-to-Clark has clicked for 22 scores in five years, most among all receivers during the Montana-era. In those five years, "DC" (as he is known) has become the third ranking all-time 49ers' receiver in total receptions (315) and yards (4,081). The totals include Clark's rookie season when he totaled just 18 catches and 323 yards. "Clark is a hard player to defend," states Rams' defensive back Leroy Irvin. "He will lineup inside like a tight end, or outside in the wide receiver position, and he is very effective from either spot," Dwight's campaign in '83 ended in the regular season finale versus Dallas as he left the game with a knee injury. He also missed postseason play due to the injury, but offseason rehab work seems to have "DC" back in top shape. In 1982, Clark: led the NFL in receptions with 60 (nearly 7 per outing) . . . was second in yardage (first in the NFC) at 913 (15.3 average per catch/101.4 per game) . . . tied the club record for MOST RECEPTIONS-GAME with 12 against San Diego (12-11-82) . . . earned the starting nod in the '83 Pro Bowl, and unanimous All-Pro honors . . . and was chosen as Sports Illustrated's NFL Player-of-the-Year. And, to top it all off, his teammates selected him the Len Eshmont Award winner for his "courageous and inspirational play" (the team's highest single annual honor). Clark had at least four catches in each of San Francisco's nine '82 games and 10 of San Francisco's 16 1983 games. He and Kellen Winslow (San Diego) are the only two players since the NFL merger to average over 70 receptions-a-season over four consecutive years. Dwight, with seasons of 82, 85, 60, and 70 (totaling 297) averaged 74.3 catches for '80, through '83, while Winslow, with campaigns of 88, 89, 54, and 88 (totaling 319) averaged 79.8 receptions over that same period. Lionel Taylor (Denver) is the only other professional player to do so in history, and he did it three times from 1960 to 1965 for the spans of '60-63, '61-64, and '62-65. Clark's 85-catch total in 1981 is the 49ers' club record. Clark originally came to the Niners as a 10th round draft pick in 1979.

COLLEGE: Clark caught 33 passes for 571 yards and a 17.3 average per catch in three years of varsity action at Clemson. He played strong safety for the Tigers as a freshman. He had receiving seasons of seven (sophomore), 15 (junior), and 11 (senior) catches for three TDs for the Tigers. Dwight earned his degree in history from Clemson in 1980. His college roommate was QB Steve Fuller of the Kansas City Chiefs.

PERSONAL: Clark was born Dwight Edward Clark in Kinston, N.C., and grew up in Charlotte, where he attended Garinger High School, "DC" favors golf, basketball and tennis as other sports of interest. Dwight and his bride, the former Ashley Stone, had a baby girl, Casey Gene (3-2-84), during the past offseason.

Mario Clark • 29

CORNERBACK • OREGON • 9TH YEAR
HT: 6-2 • WT: 195 • BORN: 3-29-54 • (TRADE IN '84)

PRO: The Niners added strength to one of their stronger positions with the acquisition of cornerback Mario Clark during the first day of training camp. The eight-year veteran was traded to San Francisco from the Buffalo Bills, July 16, 1984. Clark was a first-round draft choice of the Buffalo Bills in 1976, when he was the 18th player picked overall in that draft. During his stay in Buffalo, Mario started 113 of a possible 117 games, and his career mark of 25 interceptions ranks third on the Bills' all-time list. A good open-field runner, Clark has averaged 17.5 return yards on his 25 career thefts. He established career highs with seven interceptions and 151 return yards in 1977. The former Oregon Duck has had three seasons (1978-79-81) in which he has picked off five passes. Mario will attempt to break a two-year drought in which he has not intercepted a pass. He had 66 total tackles in '83, including 50 unassisted.

COLLEGE: Clark was All-Pac Eight and won honorable mention All-America as a senior at Oregon. He tallied 13 career picks for the Ducks, including two versus Stanford in a 15-13 upset victory in 1972. At the conclusion of his senior year, Mario played in the East-West Shrine and College All-Star games, and was selected Defensive Player-of-the-Game in the Senior Bowl.

PERSONAL: He was born Mario Sean Clark in Pasadena, Calif., and played football for Pasadena High. He and his wife, Lisa, reside in Pasadena during the offseason.

Tim Collier • 47

CORNERBACK • EAST TEXAS STATE • 9TH YEAR
HT: 6-0 • WT: 176 • BORN: 5-31-54 • (FA IN '82)

PRO: With the recent escalation of pass-oriented offenses dominating the National Football League and many teams utilizing three-wide receiver offenses as a standard formation, the value of defensive backs with the ability to cover man-to-man has risen dramatically. Tim Collier is such a defensive back. His forte is covering a wide receiver from sideline to sideline and the length of the field. Collier usually serves as the "nickel" back in the Niners' pass defense alignment, although he was called upon to start four games last year at left cornerback. His start against the Rams (10-9-83) in San Francisco was the first of three consecutive games with Tim in the starting lineup. He responded to the call with an interception and four passes defended. The following week (10-16-83), "TC" had three passes defended and his second interception in as many weeks. He injured his shoulder during the Rams contest (10-23-83), his third straight start. The injury kept Collier out of the following four games. He returned Nov. 27 and started against the Bears in Chicago. The highlight of Tim's year came in St. Louis where he returned an interception 32 yards for a touchdown. "We knew Tim was a superb coverage man, that is why we picked him up last year," stated Bill Walsh. "We missed his services when he was down with an injury during mid-season." Collier came to San Francisco as a free agent after being waived by St. Louis the first week of December (1982), following two-and-a-half seasons with the Cardinals. He originally was a ninth round draft choice by Kansas City in 1976. Tim played 52 games (23 starts) for Kansas City from 1976 through '79, and totaled nine interceptions for 227 yards and one score. That single TD was the result of the ninth longest interception return in NFL history (100 yards vs. Oakland, 12-18-77), and was one of two steals from the Raiders that afternoon by Collier. Collier was traded to St. Louis (12-15-80) for a 5th round draft pick in '80. In 30 games (11 starts) with the Cards, Tim had 59 total tackles, three interceptions for 39 yards, and 17 passes defended. In two '82 games with the 49ers, Tim had eight tackles and a defended pass.

COLLEGE: In three seasons at East Texas State, Collier intercepted nine passes. He earned All-Lone Star Conference honors each year (1973-74-75). Tim also was named to the Lone Star Conference All-Decade team for the '70s. He played both safety and corner for the Lions. As a sprinter on the ETSU track & field team, Collier recorded a 9.4 100-yard dash.

PERSONAL: Born Timothy Collier in Dallas, Tex., he attended South Oak Cliff High School in Dallas, where he was a standout athlete. Some of his high school teammates included Wayne Morris (Cardinals), Harvey Martin (Cowboys) and Michael Downs (Cowboys).

Earl Cooper • 89

TIGHT END • RICE • 5TH YEAR
HT: 6-2 • WT: 227 • BORN: 9-17-57 • (D-1A IN '80)

PRO: Earl Cooper wasted no time serving notice to the rest of the League that the fullback of 1980-82 would now be a deadly weapon from his new position of tight end. In the season opener versus the Philadelphia Eagles, Cooper took a pass from Guy Benjamin (playing for the injured Joe Montana) at the Niners' 35-yard line and raced up the middle of the field — avoiding tacklers — into the endzone to complete a 73-yard scoring play. His opening day heroics were characteristic of the former No. 1A selection. Cooper began his professional career Sept. 7, 1980, in New Orleans with two touchdowns and 148 yards in total offense. That game started a string of 62 consecutive contests in which Cooper has played. The durable athlete has not missed a regular or postseason game since he was the 13th player picked in the 1980 draft. His streak of at least one pass reception per game ended last year against the New York Jets. Prior to that game, Cooper had caught a pass in 49 consecutive regular season games. Earl completed his first year at tight end with 15 receptions and three scores, while averaging nearly 14 yards per catch. His opening day touchdown catch-and-run stood as the Niners' longest play from scrimmage until Freddie Solomon's 77-yard touchdown play in the season finale against the Cowboys (12-19-83). On Cooper's ability at tight end, Bill Walsh stated: "Earl has some great potential at tight end that is already obvious and already proven. He can be a key contributor this year as a third-down tight end capable of making big plays."

COOPER, Cont.

COLLEGE: Cooper rushed for 1,583 yards on 407 carries and caught 101 passes for 802 yards as a collegian. He scored 21 touchdowns in four seasons with the Rice Owls. As a senior in '79 (Rice finished 1-10), Earl rushed 146 times for 563 yards and hauled in 47 passes for another 463 yards and seven scores. He played in the Blue-Gray, Senior, and East-West Shrine all-star games following his Rice career.

PERSONAL: As a high school quarterback, halfback, receiver, and linebacker, Cooper played at tiny Lexington High in Lexington, Tex. He was a four-event track and field performer and a basketball player there as well. His off-season home is Houston, and he was born in Giddings, Tex. Earl has his degree from Rice (physical education, 1981). A highlight to his '81 campaign was appearing on the covers of Sports Illustrated twice (12-1-81 & 2-1-82).

Roger Craig • 33

FULLBACK • NEBRASKA • 2ND YEAR
HT: 6-0 • WT: 222 • BORN: 7-10-60 • (D-2 IN '83)

PRO: 1983 was a year when many superb college players entered the NFL and filled vital voids on their teams. Eric Dickerson with the Rams, Curt Warner in Seattle and Dan Marino with the Dolphins are a few examples, and Roger Craig's sudden impact on the 49ers was as substantial as any other rookie joining a National Football League team last year. As the first selection of the Niners in '83 and the 49th player picked overall, the second round draft choice established a new standard among San Francisco rookies with 12 total touchdowns and 72 points scored. His eight rushing touchdowns surpassed the entire team total of six during the strike-shortened 1982 season. Craig also contributed four receiving scores and 427 yards on 48 catches. Roger, who served as a backup to Jarvis Redwine and Mike Rozier during most of his playing days at Nebraska, proved to be an effective runner from scrimmage with 725 rushing yards, the third highest total ever for a Niners' rookie running back (bettered only by Vic Washington's 811 and Ken Willard's 778 yards). He accounted for more all-purpose yards (1,152) than any other 49er in '83. "He's an invaluable player," praised Bill Walsh. "Roger is really sort of our iron man carrying the ball. Each week during the season he seemed to improve. He displayed capabilities of becoming one of the great all-around backfield performers in the League." Craig really began to emerge in Week Five versus New England (10-2-83), when Wendell Tyler was not able to play due to a shoulder injury. Roger rushed for 54 yards in addition to catching two passes for 18 yards. Two weeks later Craig had his best rushing game of the season, tearing off 87 yards in New Orleans (10-16-83), including a 71-yard gallup that was the Niners' longest run from scrimmage in 1983. The rookie also had a big game against Miami (11-6-83), when he totaled 129 yards (85 rushing/44 receiving) and scored one touchdown; and against Tampa Bay (12-4-83), when he rushed for 71 yards and three scores. Craig had six touchdowns during the final three games of the season (3 rushing/3 receiving), including two in the regular season finale against Dallas. Along with running mate Tyler, Craig help lift the San Francisco ground attack from 28th, and last, among all NFL teams in 1982, to 8th in '83.

COLLEGE: Craig played tailback and fullback for the Nebraska Cornhuskers and finished his career as the school's No. 4 all-time rusher with 2,446 yards. He ranks sixth in touchdowns scored (26) and eighth in total points (158). He also was a hurdler on the track team at Nebraska. Roger has recorded a 4.6 in the 40-yard dash and a horizontal standing jump of 9-8.

PERSONAL: Roger was born Roger Timothy Craig (7-10-60) in Preston, Miss. He attended Davenport (Iowa) Central High School, where he was a wrestler and hurdler in addition to an All-America tailback. He and his wife, Vernessia, have two children and live in Betendorf, Iowa, during the offseason.

Randy Cross • 51

GUARD • UCLA • 9TH YEAR
HT: 6-3 • WT: 265 • BORN: 4-25-54 • (D-2 IN '76)

PRO: In 1983, Randy Cross re-established his ranking as one of the outstanding guards in the NFL. Cross rebounded from a 1982 season, in which he played injured most of the year, and started all 16 regular season games and both playoff contests in 1983. His play in the middle of the trenches helped the Niners gain more than 6,000 yards in total offense. Along with his comrades on the offensive line, the nine-year veteran opened holes for the revitalized San Francisco running game to increase its ground production by nearly 60 yards per contest. "Randy may be the best pulling guard in the League," says Bill Walsh. Cross was selected to play for the NFC in the Pro Bowl game following the 1981 and 1982 seasons. Randy has been active 115 games as a professional and has started all but five of them. Cross was the team's top choice (2A) in the '76 draft, and he immediately became the squad's starting center until an ankle injury sidelined him in 1978. When he came back in '79, he was moved to right guard because of the rapid development of Fred Quillian at center.

COLLEGE: Cross played both guard and center (many times both positions in the same game) and started every game in his junior and senior seasons at UCLA. He was AP and UPI All-America at guard as a senior.

PERSONAL: Cross was the California high school state champion in the shot put, besides being a standout gridder at Encino's Crespi High. He was born Randall Laureat Cross in Brooklyn, N.Y., before moving to Tarzana, Calif., as a youth. Randy is the host of "CrossTalk" a 'call-in talk' show on KCBS, aired following Monday Night Football. He and his wife, Patrice, have one daughter, Kelly Marie (11-23-83), and make their home in Redwood City, Calif. (training home of the 49ers). Randy earned a degree in political science from UCLA in 1976. His NFL statistics include one fumble recovery in 1976, two in '79, and one in 1982. Randy was chosen the 49ers' NFL Man-of-the-Year in 1981 (sponsored by Miller Brewing Co.) as the team's "outstanding citizen-athlete."

Fred Dean • 74

DEFENSIVE END • LOUISIANA TECH • 10TH YEAR
HT: 6-2 • WT: 236 • BORN: 2-24-52 • (TRADE IN '81)

PRO: Forty Niner fans were again able to chant a phrase popularized during the team's epic championship season of 1981, when the DEAN-fense returned in '83 to strike fear in the hearts of offensive linemen, and those they are charged to protect, the quarterbacks. Fred Dean's assault on opposing passers was overwhelming in intensity, devastating in actuality, and record breaking in productivity. Fred's 17½ sacks last year was best in the NFC and surpassed the Niners' team record of 16 by Tommy Hart in 1976. The former Louisiana Tech star added two sacks during the 1983 playoffs. Dean also tied Hart's team record with six sacks in a single game. The cat-quick defensive end equaled the single game mark in the Niners' 27-0 victory over New Orleans (11-15-83), at Candlestick Park. Pro Football Weekly named Dean the Defensive Player-of-the-Week for his play in that Saints game. On his efforts for the day, the reserved Dean understated: "This was one of my better days." Saints quarterback Dave Wilson summed "I got real tired of seeing Fred in there . . . I had happy feet most of the game." The return of the "Dean" of the 49ers defense had an effect on the entire unit. The defenders ballooned from nine interceptions in as many games in 1982, to 24 last year. Dean's comeback in 1983 followed the 1982 season in which he was bothered by a groin injury that reduced his effectiveness. His 3½ sacks during that season was the lowest of his 10-year professional career. After last year's career high sack total, Fred was named to the All-NFC squad by Pro Football Weekly and UPI. Dean was named to the Pro Bowl for the fourth time in the last five years, however an injury in the NFC Championship Game forced his withdrawal. Dean is the only man to have won the NFLPA's Defensive Lineman-of-the-Year award in both conferences (1980 with San Diego of the AFC, 1981 with San Francisco of the NFC.) Due to his extraordinary athletic talents, and to allow him to avoid double-teams, Fred was auditioned at linebacker during 1983 training camp and allowed to line-up in a variety of positions. Although Dean played in the down defensive lineman position most of the year, he started the season opener at right outside linebacker. Because he is such a force, many teams still attempted to negate his play. "Two things happen when Fred's in there," said defensive line coach Bill McPherson. "Teams will leave one of their backs in to double-team him, or they keep their tight end in to help the tackle block Fred. Either way that means one less guy can get out in the passing patterns. Teams are forced to adjust to Fred to keep him from being a factor in their backfield." Fred originally came into the NFL as the 2B (33rd player taken) draft pick of the San Diego Chargers in 1975. He played 85 games with San Diego before being traded to San Francisco (10-2-81) for a second round pick in '83 and the exchange of No. 1 positions in that same draft.

COLLEGE: Fred was an All-Southland Conference linebacker all four of his years at Louisiana Tech in Ruston, La., on a team that won 44 of 48 games.

PERSONAL: Born Frederick Rudolph Dean in Arcadia, La., he was a standout athlete at Ruston (La.) High School. Dean lives in San Diego during the offseason and Foster City during the season. An accomplished singer, he also writes poetry and loves to read (especially Shakespeare and Poe). He also has a great sense of humor; for example, this is his response to weightlifting — "Every now and then, I get an urge to lift weights . . . and I just go somewhere and lie down until I get over it." To which Anthony Munoz of the Bengals once responded, "Still, he's the strongest guy I've ever faced."

Al Dixon • 80

TIGHT END • IOWA STATE • 8TH YEAR
HT: 6-5 • WT: 235 • BORN: 4-5-54 • (FA IN '84)

PRO: Al Dixon is a veteran NFL performer who should provide valuable depth and competition at the tight end position. He came into the League as a seventh-round draft choice of the New York Giants in 1977, and played in 27 games with the Giants from 1977-79 before his release (10-2-79). Al was signed by Kansas City (11-4-79) and played in the final three games for the Chiefs that year (1979). Al was a reserve tight end with the Chiefs after being cut (8-19-80) and re-signed in 1980, but won the starting spot for the '81 season. Al had a single-game high six-catch, 86-yard performance versus Denver during the '81 campaign. He played in eight games with Kansas City in '82 and spent the 1983 season on the roster of the Philadelphia Eagles. Dixon has 84 career receptions for 1,248 yards and eight touchdowns entering 1983.

COLLEGE: He received his B.S. degree in child psychology, graduating with his class in 1977. Al was a three-year letterman for the Cyclones and second team All-Big Eight his senior year. The versatile Dixon also earned varsity letters in basketball and baseball at Iowa State.

PERSONAL: He was born Albert D. Dixon in Drew, Miss., and attended East St. Louis (Ill.) High, where he was the first in the school's history to earn all-state honors in football and basketball. Al is single and resides in Plainfield, N.J., during the offseason.

Darius Durham • 84

WIDE RECEIVER • SAN DIEGO STATE • 2ND YEAR
HT: 6-2 • WT: 185 • BORN: 5-27-61 • (FA IN '83)

PRO: Darius Durham was signed as a free agent by the Niners prior to their 1983 game with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers (12-4-83). The former San Diego State wide-out was originally drafted by the Bucs in the 10th round of the 1983 annual selection of college seniors. Durham was released by Tampa Bay prior to the second preseason game of last year. He was active with the Niners for the final three regular season games and both postseason contests. Darius provided San Francisco with late-season depth in the unit that includes Dwight Clark, Freddie Solomon, Mike Wilson, and Renaldo Nehemiah. "Darius shows great leaping ability and body coordination," stated Bill Walsh.

COLLEGE: Durham was an All-Western Athletic Conference selection in 1982, when he caught 45 passes for 781 yards at San Diego State. He was third in the nation with 65 receptions the preceeding year. His 988 yards and seven touchdowns were team highs in 1981. He was one of three wide receivers drafted out of San Diego State (Clint Sampson, Denver; Phil Smith, Baltimore) in 1983.

PERSONAL: Darius was born Darius Tyrone Durham (5-27-61) in Long Beach, Calif., and was a three-year letterman at Bolsa Grande High in Garden Grove, Calif., his offseason home.

Riki Ellison • 50

LINEBACKER • SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA • 2ND YEAR
HT: 6-2 • WT: 220 • BORN: 8-15-60 • (D-5 IN '83)

PRO: For a fifth-round draft choice with a history of knee problems Riki Ellison proved to be a real "diamond in the rough" for the Niners in 1983. From the moment he was named to start in place of the injured Jack Reynolds in the season opener, Riki displayed savvy and intelligence that normally is shown from players with years of experience in the League. Ellison established himself as a fixture in San Francisco's starting lineup for 15 of the 16 regular season games and both postseason tilts. He led all linebackers, and was third overall, with 79 total tackles. His steady play on the inside brought stability to a unit that had four different starting combinations over the first four weeks of the season. For his efforts, Ellison was named to the NFL All-Rookie Teams of Football Digest and Pro Football Weekly. If Ellison's play during the regular season was a pleasant surprise, his contributions during the playoffs were sheer joy. The rookie was second only to safety Carlton Williamson with 16 total tackles and his two interceptions led the team in that category. In the thrilling, 24-23, victory over Detroit in the divisional playoff game, Riki had 10 total tackles in addition to his two pass interceptions.

ELLISON, Cont.

COLLEGE: Riki led the Trojans of Southern Cal with 131 tackles during his senior year (1982), after missing all of the 1981 season following his third knee operation. He had 59 stops as a junior and was second on the team with 96 total tackles during his sophomore year. Ellison was a starter on the 1978 national championship team that defeated Michigan, 17-10, in the Rose Bowl. He took degrees in physical education and international relations while at USC.

PERSONAL: He was born Riki Ellison in Christchurch, New Zealand. His named changed to Gray when his mother remarried, but he later (in 1983, as a matter-of-fact) changed his name back to Ellison. He played football at Amphitheater High in Tucson, Az. Riki lives in Foster City, Calif., with his wife, Sheila.

Jim Fahnhorst • 94

LINEBACKER • MINNESOTA • 3RD YEAR (1ST NFL)
HT: 6-4 • WT: 230 • BORN: 11-8-58 • (FA IN '84)

PRO: Jim enters the NFL after two extremely successful seasons with the Arizona Wranglers (1984) and Chicago Blitz (1983) of the USFL. A middle linebacker in the Wranglers/Blitz 4-3 alignment, Fahnhorst will play one of the inside linebacker positions for the Niners. Originally a fourth-round draft choice of the Minnesota Vikings in 1982 (92nd overall), Jim signed an offer sheet with the Niners in June and it was not matched by the Vikings. Jim was third on the Wranglers with 109 total tackles while starting all 18 USFL regular season games in '84. His 72 solo stops were second on the team and he added two sacks for 14 yards in losses, and one pass interception for the Wrangler defense (that was rated No. 1 during the year). He registered a season high 10 total tackles versus the Oakland Invaders (5-13-84). Jim led the Chicago Blitz team of 1983 — that became the Arizona Wranglers during an offseason swap of franchises — with 155 total tackles, while starting all 18 regular season games that year. He additionally recovered four fumbles and had one interception in '83.

COLLEGE: Jim was a four-year letterman and earned All-Big Ten honors following his senior year in 1981. He was named Defensive Player-of-the-Year for the Gophers that season and played in the Blue-Gray and Olympia Gold Bowl games. Fahnhorst red-shirted in 1979 after calcium deposits were found in his right leg.

PERSONAL: He was born James John Fahnhorst in St. Cloud, Minn., and attended St. Cloud Technical High, where he lettered in both football and basketball. Jim is the brother of Niners' starting offensive right tackle Keith Fahnhorst. He followed his older brother, Keith, at Minnesota, where he majored in psychology.

Keith Fahnhorst • 71

TACKLE • MINNESOTA • 11TH YEAR
HT: 6-6 • WT: 273 • BORN: 2-6-52 • (D-2A IN '74)

PRO: Keith Fahnhorst has to be wondering just what it takes to be selected to NFC-AFC Pro Bowl game. Keith had the finest of his ten professional seasons last year, and one of the best campaigns any offensive lineman could experience. The defensive ends Fahnhorst was assigned to block were in on only 28 solo tackles through the 16 regular season games. Keith had three games in which his counterpart was not in on a single defensive play, and two where his opposition did not have a solo tackle. The Minnesota product had 12 games in which he didn't allow a sack. All this coming against some very formidable opponents at defensive left end, Fahnhorst went head-to-head with six current or former Pro-Bowlers (Doug Martin, Minnesota; Jack Youngblood, Rams; Mark Gastineau, Jets; Doug Betters, Miami; Ben Williams, Bills; Ed "Too Tall" Jones, Dallas) in 1983. Still, Keith fell just a few votes short of his first Pro Bowl appearance. He was selected as an alternate for the second consecutive year. "Keith is at the peak of his career, he has to be one of the top tackles in the League right now," praised Bill Walsh. He has 148 games (116 starts) to his credit (counting playoffs) and has started 109 of the last 110 games, including the last 89 straight — dating back to an October 10th, 1978 game at Los Angeles. As a matter-of-fact, Keith has played in all but two Niners' games since being selected by San Francisco in the second round of 1974 (as a tight end; he was moved to tackle during preseason his rookie season).

COLLEGE: Keith was an All-Big Ten tight end at Minnesota and played in the East-West Shrine and Senior Bowl games. He played three seasons for the run-oriented Gophers and caught 28 passes for 416 yards and one TD. He was the team's top receiver as a senior in '73.

PERSONAL: Keith was born in St. Cloud, Minn., and earned all-league honors in football, basketball, and track & field at St. Cloud Technical High. Keith and his wife, Susan, have two daughters — Tiffany Dawn (6-19-79) and Brittney Brook (5-13-81). His NFL stats include one pass reception for one yard and one kickoff return for 13 yards, both in 1975. He recovered two fumbles in '81, both by Ricky Patton (vs. Atlanta — 11-8, and vs. New York Giants — 11-29). Keith holds a psychology degree from the University of Minnesota. Brother Jim Fahnhorst joined the 49ers in July, after two linebacking seasons in the USFL. Keith has been a 49er longer than anyone else on the '84 roster.

Ron Ferrari • 54

LINEBACKER • ILLINOIS • 3RD YEAR
HT: 6-0 • WT: 212 • BORN: 7-30-59 • (D-7 IN '82)

PRO: Ron Ferrari found two pennies during a Saturday workout a day prior to the Niners-Cardinals game in St. Louis last year. Being both frugal and superstitious, the linebacker stashed the coins away in his right shoe the following day. Well fiscal conservatism paid large dividends as Ferrari had the best day of his two-year pro career with three sacks, two tackles and as many passes defended against the Cardinals. The former seventh-round selection played in the "nickel" defense in addition to handling special teams coverage and protection. He concluded the year with 41 total tackles (counting three sacks) and four passes defended. Ron has played in all 23 regular season games during the past two years, and in both postseason contests last year. He saw more action from scrimmage as the nickel linebacker last year after playing mainly special teams during his rookie season. According to Bill Walsh: "Ron is an intense player that makes outstanding contributions on our special teams and in the nickel defense." As a rookie, Ferrari worked his way into one of the nickel spots after injury claimed the regular nickel backer.

COLLEGE: Ferrari was voted Illinois' Most Valuable Special Teams player his final two seasons with the Illini (by his teammates). He played fullback/halfback in 1979 and '80, before switching to linebacker for his senior season (1981). As a starting LB, Ron accumulated 83 tackles, including 34 solo stops. He also had eight tackles-for-loss totaling 27 yards, one batted down pass and one recovered fumble.

PERSONAL: A Dean's list student majoring in agriculture, Ron holds two degrees: a 1979 associate degree in science from Lakeland Community College in Mattoon, Ill., and a bachelor of science degree in agricultural economics (1982) from Illinois. During the 57-day NFLPA strike in '82, he returned to his hometown of Moweaqua, Ill., to help his family harvest corn and soybean crops. And, during the '83 offseason, he returned home and married college sweetheart Karen Nicholson (4-16-83), a standout swimmer at the universities of Alabama and Illinois. Ferrari was born in Springfield, Ill., but grew up in Moweaqua, and played four years of football (LB and FB) at Moweaqua High. His full name is Ronald Lee Ferrari. His recorded 40-yard dash time is 4.7. He initially made the Illinois squad as a walk-on running back. His NFL stats include two kickoff returns for 19 yards. Prior to the 1982 season, Ron earned his private pilot's license.

Russ Francis • 81

TIGHT END • OREGON • 9TH YEAR
HT: 6-6 • WT: 242 • BORN: 4-3-53 • (TRADE IN '82)

PRO: Like the title of the 49ers' 1983 highlight film, Russ Francis proved last year that he is "Back Among The Best" at his position. The tight end caught 33 passes for 357 yards and four touchdowns. Modest numbers for the former Pro Bowler, however it was during the Niners' postseason clashes that Francis began to exhibit his bountiful talents. Russ snagged eight passes and averaged 15.4 yards per reception in the playoffs. His clutch receptions kept late-game scoring drives alive against both Detroit and Washington. Francis also was instrumental in the rebirth of the running game with his fine blocking on the strong side of the offensive line. "In my opinion Russ is the finest blocking tight end in football," praised Bill Walsh. "He is strong and he has great technique and desire." Francis began to assert himself as a pass catcher in the Niners' big win over New Orleans (11-13-83), as he contributed to the 27-0 victory with five catches for 52 yards and one touchdown. He scored a touchdown and had three outstanding catches in the regular season finale against Dallas (12-19-83). He began his comeback in 1982, actually, as he started slowly, but by season's end, he was at full speed — finishing third in receiving for the 49ers (behind league-leader Dwight Clark and RB Jeff Moore) with 23 catches, 278 yards, a 12.1 average, and two scores. He averaged over three catches and more than 45 yards per game during the 1982 season's final six contests, including a career-best eight catches at Kansas City (12-26-82) in a sparkling performance that included 95 yards receiving. Francis was a first round draft choice of the New England Patriots in 1975 (16th player selected overall) despite not playing football his senior year at Oregon. He played six seasons for New England before retiring in 1981. Russ returned to the game in '82 when the Pats traded him to San Francisco (4-27-82) for the 49ers' No. 1 and No. 4 picks in the 1982 draft.

COLLEGE: Russ switched from quarterback — a position he played in high school — to tight end as a freshman at Oregon. He injured his ankle as a sophomore, but returned for an All-Pac 8 and honorable mention All-America junior season. Francis ranked third among Pac-8 receivers with 31 catches and 495 yards as a junior.

PERSONAL: Born in Seattle, Wash., Russ grew up in Hawaii. He attended Kailua High School near Honolulu and Pleasant Hill High in Oregon. He wrestled and played basketball and football at Kailua before his family moved to Oregon for his senior year. At Pleasant Hill, he took up track and field, too, and by season's end he had thrown the javelin farther than any American schoolboy in history — 259 feet, 9 inches. Francis also was drafted by the Kansas City Royals (4th round in baseball out of high school). Russ is licensed to fly helicopters and commercial multi-engine airplanes and enjoys doing so in his offseason homeland of Hawaii. His name by birth is Russell Ross Francis. He's had three 100-yard-plus games in his NFL career.

Rick Gervais • 24

SAFETY • STANFORD • 4TH YEAR
HT: 5-11 • WT: 195 • BORN: 11-4-59 • (FA IN '81)

PRO: Rick Gervais is a prime example of the "American work ethic." He worked his way onto the Niners' roster after being released twice during his rookie year in 1981. In 1982, Rick worked his way into the San Francisco nickel defense after playing mainly special teams the preceeding year, and last year when Carlton Williamson went down with a broken leg, Gervais (who had worked his way into the backup role at strong safety) became the starter. Rick started the first five games of the season compiling 25 total tackles, two passes defended and one quarterback sack. His tackle total tied him for second on the team following the first five games, however he sustained a neck injury versus New England (10-2-83) that sidelined him for the remainder of the year. "Rick is an extremely valuable member of the defensive backfield," stated defensive coordinator George Seifert. "He is bright and can play a number of positions for us, plus he's fast." Gervais signed as a free agent with the 49ers in the spring following the 1981 draft and was: waived (8-18-81), re-signed (8-20-81), waived (8-24-81), and finally re-signed (10-29-81). By the time Super Bowl XVI rolled around, the 49ers were thankful they had given him one more chance. In that game, Rick had a fumble-forcing-tackle in the closing seconds of the first half (recovered by college teammate Milt McColl), which led to San Francisco's 20-0 halftime lead (Ray Wersching kicked a field goal on the next play).

COLLEGE: Rick was an All-Pacific 10 Conference honorable mention selection in 1979 and '80 at Stanford. He finished his senior campaign with 51 tackles and was named UPI honorable mention All-West Coast. Gervais also sprinted for Stanford's track team.

PERSONAL: Gervais played quarterback and defensive back at Bend (Ore.) High School and led his prep league in scoring and rushing. Rick rushed for 211 yards and three TDs in a game once. A sprinter on the Bend track & field unit, he placed third in the 220 (:21.6) and fifth in the 100-yard dash (:09.7) in the Oregon state championship meet. Rick earned his industrial engineering degree from Stanford (6-14-82). He was born in Bend, Ore.

John Harty • 75

DEFENSIVE END • IOWA • 4TH YEAR
HT: 6-4 • WT: 263 • BORN: 12-17-58 • (D-2A IN '81)

PRO: John Harty's 1983 season was cut short by injury to his right foot — an injury that placed him on reserve for the final four regular season contests and both playoff games. Prior to his injury, John played in five games, including starting assignments against St. Louis (9-18-83) and the Rams (10-9-83). Harty had off-season surgery on the foot and hopes to be ready for 1984, although he was a non-participant during the Niners' mini-camp in May. "John could be a real factor in our defense if he is able to recover from his injury," said Bill Walsh. Harty earned his first professional football start in 1982, and by season's end, had started seven times for the 49ers. Harty started the first four games at nose tackle in the 3-4 defensive alignment, Games 6 & 8 at right end, and Game 7 at right tackle in the 4-3 alignment. Harty finished '82 as the team's No. 8 tackler with 31 total stops (20 solo/11 assists) and two-and-a-half sacks for 21 yards. Harty was a 2A draft pick of the 49ers in 1981.

COLLEGE: John was named to several 2nd Team All-America squads in 1980 as a senior at Iowa (including UPI, NEA and College and Pro Football Newsweekly) and he earned All-Big Ten honors in each of his four seasons, including UPI in '80. Harty had 58 tackles as a senior and 65 in his junior season. The '80 captain of the Hawkeyes, he played in the Blue-Gray and

Japan Bowl games to top off his career, after 232 career tackles at Iowa.

PERSONAL: John and his wife, Monica, call Sioux City, Iowa, their offseason home, and have one son, Zachary (10-21-82). John was born in Sioux City, and was a standout in football, basketball, and track & field (winning two letters in each) at Heelan High there. He was all-state in prep football.

Dwight Hicks • 22

SAFETY • MICHIGAN • 6TH YEAR
HT: 6-1 • WT: 192 • BORN: 4-5-56 • (FA IN '79)

PRO: The long-awaited command performance of the hottest group of 1981 — "Dwight Hicks and the Hot Licks" toured the NFL last year to rave reviews from opposing quarterbacks and wide receivers. The Niners' defensive backfield starters of Hicks, Carlton Williamson, Ronnie Lott and Eric Wright, along with strong backup support from Rick Gervais, Tim Collier, Tom Holmoe, Richard Blackmore, and Dana McLemore, provided smash hits for packed stadiums throughout the League. Lead performer Hicks soloed on 53 hits and provided backup on 20 others. When not distributing hits, Hicks commanded center stage by stepping in front of passes (directed at the opposition) and dancing his way into the endzone. Dwight displayed his showmanship twice last year, once for 40 yards in front of a shocked audience in St. Louis (9-18-83), and in the Superdome in New Orleans, he high stepped 62 yards for a score (10-16-83). After his highly successful engagements in the States, Hicks (and Lott) accepted an invitation to perform in Hawaii at the NFC-AFC Pro Bowl. College and Pro Football Newsweekly charted Hicks' act worthy of second team All-Pro honors. The return of Hicks and his group to "headliner" status followed a sub-par 1982. "We didn't have the year in '82 that we had in '81," admitted Hicks. "We were trying too hard to make things happen, gambling too much, and really playing beyond our limits. With the return of our pass rush last year we were able to gamble again and create turnovers." In five years with the Niners, Hicks has 23 pass interceptions (4th among all-time 49ers) and two steals during postseason play, including an interception and 22-yard return versus Detroit (12-31-83). He has been a Pro Bowler for the last three consecutive years and has started 65 of the last 66 49ers' games, missing a start against the Rams (10-23-83). "Dwight has great instincts for this game," stated Bill Walsh. "His ballhawking style puts him in a position to make big plays." Hicks is the team record holder for MOST INTERCEPTION YARDS, SEASON at 239 (1981), and LONGEST FUMBLE RETURN at 80t (at Washington — 10-4-81). He was signed by the 49ers in '79 (10-24-79) after two other attempts at making it in the NFL. He was drafted by Detroit in the sixth round of 1978 and released (8-15-78); played in Canada (9-16-78 thru 10-14-78); signed with Philadelphia (12-28-78) as a free agent; and was released (8-28-79), before finally finding a home with San Francisco. "I think all of us feel very fortunate to have him around," praises Ronnie Lott. "Since I became a 49er in 1981, Dwight has always been there to lend a helping hand to his teammates. He and his play are keys to our success."

COLLEGE: Dwight was a four-year letterman at the University of Michigan, playing in 38 wins, two ties and only seven losses there. He was defensive captain for the '77 Wolverine team that played in the '78 Rose Bowl (while former 49ers' teammate Walt Downing was the offensive captain). Michigan played in two Rose Bowls and an Orange Bowl during Hicks' tenure in Ann Arbor. He was named All-Big Ten in 1977.

PERSONAL: Hicks was born in Mount Holly, N.J., and grew up in Pennsauken, N.J. He attended Pennsauken High School and was a standout in football, basketball and baseball. He has interests in broadcast journalism as an offseason profession and as a future career.

Tom Holmoe • 28

SAFETY • BYU • 2ND YEAR
HT: 6-2 • WT: 180 • BORN: 3-7-60 • (D-4 IN '83)

PRO: Tom Holmoe enters his second season in the Niners' secondary. The fourth round draft choice of 1983 played in all 16 regular season games and both of the playoff tilts. A cornerback in college, Holmoe was a backup safety and standout special teams player during his rookie year in the League. Tom reinforced his reputation as a sure hitter with 14 solo tackles among his 16 total stops. Holmoe also contributed one defended pass and a fumble recovery to his rookie totals. During the postseason, he added two more solo tackles. Tom saw his most extensive play from scrimmage during the Niners' games against the Rams (10-9-83) and New Orleans (10-16-83), when injuries eliminated Carlton Williamson and Rick Gervais from the line-up. "Tom is an intelligent player," stated defensive secondary coach Ray Rhodes. "He made some critical plays on special teams and covers a lot of ground on the field," added Bill Walsh.

COLLEGE: Tom was an All-WAC performer in 1982, during his senior year at BYU. He totaled 54 tackles and had three interceptions, including a scoring return during that season. Holmoe was awarded the Most Valuable Defensive Back trophy in 1981, when he intercepted three passes and had 61 total stops. Tom led the WAC as a sophomore in 1980 with seven interceptions while earning all-NCAA District VII honors. He was a backup defensive back during his freshman year in '79.

PERSONAL: He was born Thomas Holmoe, March 7, 1960, in Los Angeles, Calif. He won three letters in as many sports at Crescenta Valley High of La Crescenta, Calif., where he set school records for longest pass reception (82 yards) and longest kickoff return (93 yards), while earning All-CIF honors. Tom and his wife, Lori, gave birth to a baby girl — Shannon Renae (3-18-83) this past offseason.

Robert Hubble • 99

DEFENSIVE END • RICE • 1ST YEAR
HT: 6-7 • WT: 242 • BORN: 9-20-58 • (FA IN '83)

PRO: Possessed with outstanding natural ability, Robert Hubble is attempting to make the transition from the offensive side of the ball to defense. More specifically, from tight end to defensive end. Hubble came to the Niners last year after being selected in the eighth round of the 1982 draft by the New York Giants. He signed with the Chicago Bears after his release from the Giants during the preseason. He was released by Chicago before the 1982 regular season, and San Francisco signed the Rice product (4-30-83). A neck injury sustained prior to the Niners' first preseason game placed Hubble on injured reserve for the entire 1983 season.

COLLEGE: A rare two-sport letterman (football and basketball) at Rice University, Hubble was an All-America selection by College and Pro Football Weekly following his senior year. He was chosen to play in the Hula, Blue-Gray and Senior Bowl games at the conclusion of 1982. He accomplished a remarkable feat during the 1980 season when he kicked a 52-yard field goal — the only field goal he attempted while in college.

PERSONAL: He was born Robert Wilson Hubble, Sept. 20, 1958, in Kerrville, Tex. He was an All-Texas football and basketball player at Kerrville Tivy High, where he also lettered in track. Hubble is a skilled tennis player and golfer, as well. He traveled with the Niners all last season as an administrative assistant to the coaching staff (following his injury).

Allan Kennedy • 66

TACKLE • WASHINGTON STATE • 3RD YEAR
HT: 6-7 • WT: 275 • BORN: 1-8-58 • (FA IN '81)

PRO: Lady luck finally paid a visit to Allan Kennedy in 1983. After two successive years in which Murphy's Law (everything that can go wrong, will go wrong) established residence in Kennedy's locker, the offensive lineman finally shook free. He was able to avoid the injury jinx and participate in all 16 regular season games and both playoff encounters last year. In addition to backing up both tackle positions, Allan is a part of the punt/field goal protection teams. His presence adds quality depth at one of the stronger, more veteran units on the team. "Allan is a very sound, competent performer, who could step right in and start for our club if needed," stated offensive line coach Bobb McKittrick. "He is a fine technician of the game and has developed his skills through hard work." Kennedy originally was drafted 10B by the Washington Redskins out of Washington State in '81 and released. He was claimed as a free agent by San Francisco (9-9-81) and immediately placed on injured reserve (9-12-81) due to a hand injury (severed fingertip). He spent all but the final three games on injured reserve before being called up (12-3-81) to add depth to the offensive line. He saw most of his playing time on kicking teams. During the '82 offseason, he prepared like never before, but an ankle injury the first day of training camp ended his '82 hopes as he spent the entire year on injured reserve.

COLLEGE: Kennedy earned 2nd team and honorable mention All-America honors his last two years at Washington State University. A five-year player who was redshirted in 1977 after tearing ankle ligaments versus Michigan State, Kennedy started all four of his seasons with the Cougars. An All-Pac 10 (1979) and All-West Coast selection in '79 and '80, Allan was the 1980 team co-captain and played in the Japan Bowl to finish off his WSU career.

KENNEDY, Cont.

PERSONAL: Allan was born a banker's son in Vancouver, BC, and has Canadian citizenship. He earned his criminal justice degree from WSU in June, 1981. He played three years of varsity football at El Camino Real High School in Woodland Hills, Calif., and was All-Valley, all-league, and 2nd team All-Los Angeles. Allan was also an outstanding shot putter at El Camino Real and was a scholar-athlete selection for both sports. He is single and lives in San Mateo, Calif.

Lonnie Lawson • 20

SAFETY • UTAH • 1ST YEAR
HT: 6-0 • WT: 185 • BORN: 12-13-61 • (FA IN '83)

PRO: As a free agent defensive back, Lonnie Lawson turned quite a few heads, and won many nods of approval during the early portion of the Niners' 1983 training camp. Lawson proved he could be effective in downfield coverage as well as provide tough run support from his safety position. He accounted for six total tackles in the Niners' preseason opener in Los Angeles, against the Raiders (8-6-83). However, his quest to earn a spot on the 49-man roster ended when he sustained a season-ending knee injury in the contest. This year, Lawson returns to battle for one of the slots in the San Francisco defensive secondary. "We hope to get a good look at Lonnie during training camp this year," said Bill Walsh. "Lonnie was very impressive prior to his injury last year."

COLLEGE: Lonnie had 81 total tackles and four interceptions during his senior year at Utah. He was named All-WAC second team for his performance that season. Lawson had 67 tackles and three sacks from his safety position as a junior in 1981. He was a two-time all-conference performer at Compton Junior College in Compton, Calif., prior to joining the Utes.

PERSONAL: He was born in Fort Worth, Tex., and played football for Dunbar High there. Lonnie is single and lives in San Mateo.

Frank LeMaster • 55

LINEBACKER • KENTUCKY • 10TH YEAR
HT: 6-2 • WT: 238 • BORN: 3-12-59 • (TRADE IN '84)

PRO: Through the grueling 16-game season, one element that can separate a team's success from failure is its depth of personnel. In a move designed to address that concern, the 49ers acquired linebacker

Frank LeMaster from the Philadelphia Eagles during the past offseason for a 1985 draft choice. The deal brought San Francisco an experienced, quality player who has distinguished himself for 10 NFL seasons. LeMaster played in 129 straight games for the Eagles from 1976 through '82, starting the last 115 in a row prior to separating his shoulder in a 1983 preseason tilt against San Diego. That injury forced Frank to miss all of the '83 season. However, the man who Eagles' observers called the "rock" of the Philadelphia defense, is ready for the 1984 campaign. "I'm back to 100 percent and ready to hit," proclaimed LeMaster. "The injury only made me realize that I love this game more than ever." That enthusiasm pleases Bill Walsh. "We feel a player with Frank's talent and experience can add maturity and leadership to the squad. His contributions should have an impact." Frank's last regular season action came in 1982, when he accounted for 62 total tackles and two quarterback sacks in the strike-shortened nine game season. That came on the heels of his best year as a professional (1981) when he tied for team leadership with 133 total tackles and intercepted two passes. For his labors, Frank was selected by his peers to the NFC-AFC Pro Bowl. He has 10 career interceptions, including a career single season high of four in 1975. During that season, he returned an interception 89 yards for one of his three career touchdowns. LeMaster entered the League as a fourth round draft choice of the Eagles from Kentucky. He started four games his rookie year and became the starter at the beginning of the '75 season.

COLLEGE: Frank lettered in both football and basketball while at the University of Kentucky. He was an All-Southeastern Conference choice and defensive captain his senior year when he led the Wildcats with 150 total tackles. LeMaster played in the North-South and Blue-Gray games following in his senior year. He holds a B.S. degree in health and biological science.

PERSONAL: He was born Frank Preston LeMaster in Lexington, Ky., and lettered in three sports at Lexington Bryan Station High. Frank is the president of LeMaster Racquetball and Fitness Center, and has developed his life-long interest in horses to Pinnacle Management Co., a thoroughbred horse investment planning firm, headquartered in New York (which he serves as vice president). He is president of LeMaster Farm Service of Lexington and vice president of the Liberty Investment Group. A licensed real estate agent in the state of Pennsylvania, Frank is the host of an annual golf tournament in Lafayette Hill, Pa., benefitting the Boy Scouts of America. He and his wife, Theresa, and sons, Justin James and Breenan, reside in West Chester, Pa.

"The Lion" Honored

Former San Francisco 49er tackle Leo "The Lion" Nomellini is a member of Pro Football's Hall of Fame, but he also has another distinction. He is the only player ever to make All-Pro both on offense and defense since two-platoon all-stars have been selected. Nomellini was an All-Pro choice on offense in 1951 and 1952, then switched to defense and was an All-Pro selection in 1953, 1954, 1957 and 1959. Leo also played in 10 Pro Bowl games, two on offense, eight on defense.

Ronnie Lott • 42

CORNERBACK • SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA • 4TH YEAR
HT: 6-0 • WT: 199 • BORN: 5-8-59 • (0-1 IN '81)

PRO: "He plays defense like it's offense." That compliment was directed toward Ronnie Lott by an admirer, and a man who knows a little about offensive football, NFL great and former 49er O.J. Simpson.

"Juice" made the statement while watching Ronnie practice for the NFC-AFC Pro Bowl game which has become an annual event for Lott, the former Southern California Trojan. His consistent appearances in the all-star game indicate that Lott's contemporaries in the business admire and appreciate the tenacity of his play, and level of his skill. Ronnie exhibited his individual talent and team spirit in 1983 by moving from his traditional spot at left cornerback and starting at free safety versus the Rams (10-23-83). Lott had not played safety since his collegiate days at USC. However, when injuries eliminated the services of Carlton Williamson and Rick Gervais, Ronnie also stepped in and played at the strong safety spot last year. But it was from the familiar left cornerback position that Lott played the majority of the year. Astoundingly, he led the team in total tackles with 180, nearly 30 more than any other Niners' defender. His 80 solo tackles were also high for San Francisco last year. In pass coverage, Ron picked off four tosses and was credited with an additional 16 passes defended, many of those coming on jarring licks delivered to would-be receivers. His over the shoulder interception in the endzone against the Patriots, in New England (10-2-83), was one of the more dramatic defensive plays of last season. Lott also had a key interception in the Niners' postseason victory over the Detroit Lions (12-31-83). The three-year veteran was named all-pro in 1983 and was honored by the NFL Alumni Association as its Defensive Back-of-the-Year. Ronnie set out last year to improve on his 1982 performance, when he recorded 68 tackles and two interceptions, returning one for a touchdown that established a team record for MOST CAREER TDs ON INTERCEPTIONS at 4 (3 in 1981, 1 in '82). He set the pace for his career in 1981, when he finished as runner-up for NFL Rookie-of-the-Year honors and made every conceivable all-star team from all-rookie to all-pro. Ronnie finished second on the 49ers that year with 89 tackles (52 solo/37 assists) and had seven interceptions (6th in the NFC & 7th in the NFL) for 117 yards and three scores. During the '81 playoffs, Lott added 16 tackles, two interceptions and a TD. Not counting his postseason score, Lott became only the second rookie in League annals to accomplish the feat of three interception returns for TDs (Lem Barney did the same thing for Detroit as a rookie in 1967). And only two other players in pro football history have had more than three thefts for TDs in a season — Ken Houston of Houston in 1971 and Jim Kearney of Kansas City in '72 — and they had just four. With four in his career already, Lott ranks among the top-10 in NFL history.

COLLEGE: Lott was a consensus All-America before being the eighth player selected in the 1981 NFL draft. The All-Pac 10 performer was USC's 1980 MVP and Most Inspirational Player. He had 86 tackles in 1980, 250 for his four-year Trojan career. He ranked second in the nation and No. 1 in the Pac-10 in '80 with eight interceptions for 166 yards (giving him 14 for his career, two for TDs). He also had three fumble recoveries (10 in his career) and 16 defended passes (37 in his career) during his senior season. In addition, Lott played basketball for the Trojans as a junior in 1979-80. He topped his grid career with appearances in the Hula and Japan bowls.

PERSONAL: Ronnie was born in Albuquerque, N.M., and earned his public administration degree from USC in 1981 (in four years). A product of Rialto, Calif., and Eisenhower High School there, he was an All-Citrus Belt League pick at three different positions (defensive back, quarterback, and wide receiver). Lott also was all-league in basketball (three years) as a guard and two years in baseball (shortstop). As a senior, he was Citrus Belt League Player-of-the-Year and unanimous All-America. He is single and lives in Santa Clara. He is listed in "The American Bachelors Register" (1982, by the editors of Playgirl Magazine) among the country's "Most Eligible 100." And "Man Watchers, Inc." went one better in naming Ronnie among "The Ten Most Watchable Men of 1982."

John Macaulay • 67

CENTER • STANFORD • 1ST YEAR
HT: 6-3 • WT: 255 • BORN: 4-27-59 • (FA IN '83)

PRO: John Macaulay's knee has completely healed from a preseason injury that forced him to miss all of the 1983 season. That is good news for the Niners' offensive line. Macaulay's presence as a backup to starting center Fred Quillan allows starting guard Randy Cross and substitute Jesse Sapolu to concentrate more on their duties at the guard positions, although either could play center. In addition to rehabilitating his knee, Macaulay has worked on his long-snapping for punts and field goals during the offseason. John played for Bill Walsh during his freshman year (1978), when both were at Stanford. Macaulay was selected in the 11th round of the 1982 draft by the Green Bay Packers. He was released by the Packers late in the '82 preseason and signed by the Niners following 1982 (5-20-83).

COLLEGE: John was a four-year standout (1978 through '81) at Stanford, with a string of 40 consecutive starts. Macaulay was an All-Pac 10 performer both his junior and senior years and played in the Japan, East-West, and Blue-Gray games at the conclusion of his senior season. He took his B.A. in human biology.

PERSONAL: He was born John Dunn Macaulay in San Diego, Calif., and played football and baseball at Bonita Vista High in Chula Vista, Calif. John and his wife, Lynn, reside in Portola Valley, Calif.

Milt McColl • 53

LINEBACKER • STANFORD • 4TH YEAR
HT: 6-6 • WT: 230 • BORN: 8-28-59 • (FA IN '81)

PRO: Milt McColl is working his way into being one of the more valuable members of the San Francisco 49ers. After making the team in 1981 as a free agent, he has improved his status with his work on special teams and steady play from scrimmage when needed. He played in 12 games last year and accounted for 10 total tackles and one quarterback sack. He missed four games due to a pulled hamstring suffered in Week 7 versus New Orleans (10-16-83), but returned to action (11-20-83) for the Niners' contest against the Falcons in Atlanta. Milt tied for team leadership with two forced fumbles last year and recorded a tackle in the playoffs. "Milt McColl plays with intensity and intelligence," says Bill Walsh. "We feel very comfortable with him in the lineup and/or on special teams." McColl's 1982 stats included 20 tackles in nine games (one more tackle in seven fewer games than his '81 stats of 19 tackles). He started the two '82 games that preceeded the 57-day players' strike. One of the feature plays of Super Bowl XVI saw Milt recover a fumble (knocked loose by Rick Gervais) on a kickoff as the first half came to a close (the half ended on the next play as Ray Wersching booted a field goal for the 20-0 San Francisco lead).

COLLEGE: McColl was an Academic All-America selection in 1979 and '80 and 2nd Team All-Pac 10, UPI honorable mention All-West Coast, and The Sporting News honorable mention All-America in 1980 at Stanford. He played in the Hula and Japan Bowls to finish off his Cardinal career. He skipped spring football his senior year to study at Stanford's overseas campus in Cliveden, England, and Florence, Italy.

PERSONAL: One of eight McColls to attend Stanford University, Milt was born in Oak Park, Ill. He was honorable mention All-America and All-CIF at South Hills High School in Covina, Calif. He captained his prep basketball team and earned all-league honors in track and volleyball. McColl was valedictorian of his high school class and was named San Gabriel Valley Scholar-Athlete-of-the-Year. His mother (Barbara '53) and his father (Bill '52) and several brothers and sisters are Stanford grads. Milt graduated on-time in human biology at Stanford and has attended Stanford Medical School while playing with the 49ers. His father was an All-America end in 1950-51 and his brother (Duncan) was an All-America defensive end in 1976 for Stanford. The senior McColl played with the Chicago Bears and Duncan played briefly in the NFL with the Washington Redskins. During the 1983 offseason, Milt married his collegiate sweetheart, Cindy Emanuels (3-2-83).

Dana McLemore • 43

KICK RETURNER-CORNERBACK • HAWAII • 3RD YEAR
HT: 5-10 • WT: 183 • BORN: 7-1-60 • (D-10A IN '82)

PRO: Like a prize fighter knowing the importance of winning the final round, Dana McLemore likes to finish with a bang. For two consecutive seasons Dana has broken a punt return for a touchdown in the season finale. Last year he raced 56 yards into the endzone, with a first quarter punt off the foot of ex-Niner Jim Miller, and in 1982, Dana returned a punt 93 yards (one yard short of the team record — and longest in the NFL that season) for a score against the Rams in the final game of the year (1-2-83). McLemore's 10.7 return average on 31 attempts was bettered only by Henry Ellard's 13.6 average among NFC performers in '83. The defensive back also averaged nearly 20 yards on his 30 kickoff returns. He recorded 23 total tackles while playing in the defensive backfield and on special teams. McLemore's big game of the year was against the Rams (10-23-83), when he made two key stops on kickoff return coverage and forced a fumble. A sure tackler, 17 of McLemore's 23 tackles were solo stops. "Dana is a good tackler because he plays through the tackle," says George Seifert. McLemore was drafted in the 10th round of the 1982 selection of college seniors. Dana's 1982 stats included 16 kickoff returns for 353 yards and a 22.1-yard average, and seven punt returns for 156 yards and a 22.3 average — the best average in the league (though he was listed among "non-qualifiers" because he was two returns shy of the minimum to qualify. However, his 156 yards on nine returns still would have given him an '82 NFL-high 17.3 average).

McLEMORE, Cont.

COLLEGE: McLemore was a return specialist who doubled as a defensive back at Hawaii, too. He was a four-year starter at cornerback for the Rainbow Warriors (41 games) and totaled 180 tackles (140 solo/40 assists). He had 41 initial hits and five assists in 1981 as a senior All-Western Athletic Conference pick. He returned 31 punts for 261 yards and an 8.4 average in '81, with a long of 51 yards.

PERSONAL: Dana was born in Los Angeles and grew up in Southern California. He was a standout athlete at Venice High School. McLemore was a flanker, defensive back, punter (46.4 average), and back-up kicker for PATs and kickoffs in his senior season. He carried the ball 73 times for 392 yards and five scores; caught 21 passes for 386 yards and five TDs; and had 33 tackles (24 solo/9 assists) and three interceptions on defense. Dana has a 4.49 clocking in the 40-yard dash. He resides in Milpitas, Calif.

Carl Monroe • 32

RUNNING BACK-RETURN SPECIALIST • UTAH • 2ND YEAR
HT: 5-8 • WT: 166 • BORN: 2-20-60 • (FA IN '83)

PRO: At 5-8 and 166 pounds, Carl Monroe should qualify for hazard pay every time he steps out onto the football field. Clearly, he is one of the smallest men in the League, and he had to beat very large odds to get here. A free agent last year, Monroe won a job by performing one of the more dangerous tasks in the game — returning kickoffs. Carl had returned eight kickoffs for 152 yards before sustaining a broken foot in the Niners' contest versus the Patriots in New England (10-2-83). The rookie also had 23 rushing yards and 61 yards receiving through the first five games of the year (at the time of his injury). Monroe was on injured reserve for the final 11 regular season games and both playoff contests.

COLLEGE: Monroe set single season records for rushing attempts (309) and rushing yards (1,507) with the Utes in '82. His yardage total established a WAC record for a single season.

PERSONAL: He was born Carl Monroe in Pittsburg, Pa., and attended Overfelt High in San Jose, Calif. Carl is single and resides in San Jose.

Joe Montana • 16

QUARTERBACK • NOTRE DAME • 6TH YEAR
HT: 6-2 • WT: 195 • BORN: 6-11-56 • (D-3 IN '79)

PRO: Entering 1984, Joe Montana ranks as the most proficient quarterback in NFL history. His 89.8 career ranking has escalated the former Notre Dame star to the pinnacle of his position in just five years. His rise to the top is embedded in pure talent (polished by hard work), a competitive spirit (coupled with an overpowering will to win), and a game attitude that is nourished by the pressure of do-or-die situations. His .635 career completions percentage makes Joe the all-time accuracy leader among NFL quarterbacks. He also has the fewest interceptions (2.7) for every 100 passing attempts of all-time. In addition to his passing skills, Joe's escapability factor, or his talent to elude the rush of on-coming defensive linemen and throw on the run, is an element of his game superior to most other NFL quarterbacks. This ability to improvise has impressed opponents. "What makes Joe so tough," exclaimed Redskin quarterback Joe Theismann, "is when things start breaking down he's got great peripheral vision. He has the ability to move and see everything that's happening around him." Joe has started the last 46 consecutive games (including playoffs), although he played with painful injuries during that period. Working the Bill Walsh offense to near perfection, Montana has proved invaluable to the success of the Niners over the last four years. Montana has compiled a .652 winning percentage in those 46 starts and has led the Niners to the playoffs in two of the last three seasons. Guard Randy Cross summed up Montana's leadership ability this way: "Joe doesn't demand respect, he commands it because we always feel he's going to do the job for us." His uncanny composure in pressure situations was evident in the 1983 NFC Championship Game, when he completed 18 second-half passes for 279 yards and three touchdowns to erase a 21-0 Redskins lead. His legendary cool under fire, beginning with his collegiate days, heightened by "The Drive" that led to "The Catch" in the Niners' 1981 NFC Championship victory over the Dallas Cowboys, rose to greater levels during the 1983 playoffs. A week prior to the Redskins' game, Joe marched his unit 70 yards to a touchdown while using 3:31 of the final 4:54 remaining — providing the Niners a 24-23 victory over the Detroit Lions. "I don't know what it is about him," commented Dwight Clark, "but he never lets on that he's nervous. I'm sure he is inside, but you never see him blow his cool." Although his heroics in the San Francisco-Washington game did not produce victory, Joe set the NFC title game passing record for attempts (48) and tied the record with 27 completions in a NFC Championship Game. For the year, Montana established a team record with 3,910 passing yards, and twice threw four touchdown passes in a single game. His first four-touchdown performance came at Minnesota (9-8-83), when he completed 70.8 percent of his passes (17-24) in the 48-17 victory. Joe followed that display with his first of three 300-yard games in '83, as he hit for 341 yards and three touchdowns in a win over St. Louis (9-18-83). Montana had a season high 28 completions for 316 yards in the tough 10-7 loss to the L.A. Rams (10-9-83). The former third-round selection had his best yardage output of the year in the rematch with the Rams (10-23-83), when he collected 358 yards in the 45-35 victory. He had a regular season-high 43 attempts and three touchdown tosses versus New Orleans (11-13-83). Montana had an equal number of attempts (43) and completions (26) two weeks later at Chicago in a bitter 13-3 defeat. He tied his team-record four touchdown passes in the season finale victory over the Dallas Cowboys, as Joe concluded the season with a career high of 94.6 passing rating (3rd NFC/6th NFL) and 26 touchdowns. An all-around athlete, Montana set a career mark, and was second only to Chicago's Jim McMahon (307) among NFL quarterbacks with 284 yards rushing. His 64.5 completion percentage was best among NFC quarterbacks and tied his team record set in 1980, when Joe threw 242 fewer passes. A Pro Bowler for the second time in the last three years, Montana also was selected second team all-pro by College and Pro Football Weekly and NEA. The Bay Area Sports Hall-of-Fame named Joe its 1983 Professional Athlete-of-the-Year.

COLLEGE: Montana turned down several scholarship offers and was set to go to North Carolina State on a basketball ride before Notre Dame offered him a football scholarship. During his Fighting Irish career, Montana completed 260 of 515 passes (.522 percent) for 4,121 yards and 25 touchdowns. As a senior, he completed 141 of 260 passes (.542 percent) for 2,010 yards and ten TDs, and earned national acclaim in the Cotton Bowl when he guided Notre Dame to a grand comeback against Houston. Montana brought the Irish back from a 34-12 deficit midway through the fourth period to a 35-34 win with no time showing on the clock. Notre Dame won the national championship with Joe at quarterback in 1977. He redshirted in 1976 and didn't start a full season until '78 (Joe once calculated that he was the seventh string quarterback early in his collegiate career).

PERSONAL: Born Joseph C. Montana in New Eagle, Pa., Joe attended Ringold High School in Monongahela and was a standout in basketball, baseball and football there. The name "Montana" is Italian ("My dad says there used to be a 'g' before the last 'n'," says Joe). He calls Joe Namath (who hails from Beaver Falls, Pa., near Monongahela) his hero; and he earned his business administration/marketing degree from Notre Dame in December, 1978. Joe is one of three 49ers' candidates for the annual Lite NFL Man-of-the-Year Award (sponsored by the Miller Brewing Co.) in 1984.

Blanchard Montgomery • 52

LINEBACKER • UCLA • 2ND YEAR
HT: 6-2 • WT: 236 • BORN: 2-17-61 • (D-3 IN '83)

PRO: Blanchard Montgomery will be a man in transition in 1984. Drafted as an inside linebacker in the third round last year, Montgomery will play the outside linebacker position for the Niners this season. If Blanchard can make the switch as effectively as his move from fullback to linebacker during his collegiate days at UCLA, he could be a force in the defense. Although the move from inside to outside linebacker shouldn't be as drastic, the challenge is still ahead of the former Bruin. "Blanchard has good athletic ability that we hope can be utilized at the outside position," stated Bill Walsh. Montgomery started the first three games of '83 at the right inside linebacker spot in place of the injured Jack Reynolds. He played in 11 games last season, contributing 15 tackles and one defended pass. A neck injury forced him out of the final five regular games and all postseason play.

COLLEGE: Blanchard had three games of 12-or-more total tackles, including a season high of 19 versus Southern Cal for the Bruins in 1982. His eight tackles, two sacks, and 11-yard interception return of a touchdown were instrumental in UCLA's 24-14 defeat of Michigan in the 1983 Rose Bowl. Blanchard had 93 tackles (fourth on the team) in 1981, after making 17 stops as a backup linebacker during his first year on defense in 1980. He rushed for 20 yards and averaged 4.0 yards a carry as a freshman fullback.

PERSONAL: He was born Blanchard Montgomery III in Los Angeles, Calif., and played football at Granada Hills High, in the suburban Los Angeles area. Blanchard was a tailback on the G.H.H.S. team that featured a pass-oriented offense led by QB John Elway (Denver Broncos).

Jeff Moore • 25

RUNNING BACK • JACKSON STATE • 5TH YEAR
HT: 6-0 • WT: 196 • BORN: 8-20-56 • (FA IN '82)

PRO: Dependable performance is the trademark of Jeff Moore, the crafty veteran performer from Jackson State. Jeff provided the Niners with quality relief for Wendell Tyler at the running back position, and valuable pass-catching ability coming out of the backfield in many critical third-down situations in 1983. The ex-Seattle Seahawk contributed 249 yards rushing and receiving. He also returned seven punts for 117 yards during the regular season. "Jeff is just a good all-around back," pronounced Bill Walsh. "He is a good runner and pass catcher, and he makes intelligent football decisions." Moore was acquired as a free agent prior to the start of the '82 season. He led the Niners in rushing that year with 281 yards in the short nine-game season. His 37 receptions were first among running backs and second on the team in '82. One of seven free agents to make the 1982 roster, Jeff was the only one of the group to emerge as a starter that year. He scored three touchdowns in the 49ers' 30-24 victory against the Rams on Monday Night Football (Thursday style — 12-2-82). Moore was selected by Seattle in the 12th round of the 1979 NFL draft as the 319th player taken overall. He played in 32 games for the Seahawks before being released after two games (9-15-81) of the 1981 season. The Seahawks used Moore as a backup running back behind Sherman Smith and as a kickoff returner.

COLLEGE: Jeff was the MVP of the Southwestern Athletic Conference as a senior at Jackson State, and was named All-SWAC, Mutual Black Network All-America and national Offensive Player-of-the-Year. He rushed for 1,205 yards on 169 carries (7.3 average) and ten TDs as a senior, including 202 yards against Bethune-Cookman and three other plus-150 yard efforts.

PERSONAL: Moore was born in Kosciusko, Miss. (pronounced: "kozy-esko"), and still calls that little town (population less than 9,000) his offseason home. He lettered in baseball, track and football at Kosciusko High and once gained 329 yards and scored five TDs in a single game. He is Jeff D. Moore and is not related to Jeff B. Moore, former wide receiver of the Rams. Jeff had four tackles (3 solo/1 assist) in '82.

Gary Moten • 59

LINEBACKER • SOUTHERN METHODIST • 2ND YEAR
HT: 6-1 • WT: 210 • BORN: 4/3/61 • (D-7 IN '83)

PRO: Gary Moten fought off the label of an "undersized linebacker" and worked his way onto the final roster in 1983. The seventh round choice last year was thought by many around the League to be too small to play inside linebacker. Although he missed the first 10 games of the year due to a preseason knee injury, Gary was activated prior to the Niners-Saints clash (11-13-83). He contributed two unassisted tackles in his initial game and finished the year with nine total stops, including seven solo tackles. Gary began to catch the eyes of the 49er coaching staff early during the 1983 training camp. His speed and agility allowed him to evade oncoming offensive linemen during camp drills and scrimmages. He sustained his knee injury in San Francisco's final preseason game against Seattle (8-27-83).

COLLEGE: Gary led the Mustangs of Southern Methodist in tackles for three consecutive years (131-1980, 139-'81, & 138-1982) and was a honorable mention All-America (by AP and UPI) in 1981-'82. He also recorded two career sacks and three interceptions while at SMU.

PERSONAL: He was born Gary Kim Moten in Clute, Tex., and was an all-state performer at Clute Brazoswood High, where he averaged 15 tackles a game. He also played fullback and scored five times on 16 rushing attempts. He is single and resides in Clute during the offseason.

Renaldo Nehemiah • 83

WIDE RECEIVER • MARYLAND • 3RD YEAR
HT: 6-1 • WT: 183 • BORN: 3-24-59 • (FA IN '82)

PRO: In his two years since returning to a game he abandon to concentrate solely on running track, Renaldo Nehemiah has displayed steady improvement. Now he appears to be on the verge of becoming a potent element in the 49er arsenal. After catching eight passes for 161 yards as a rookie in 1982, "Skeets" more than doubled that total with 17 receptions for 236 yards and one touchdown in '83. Renaldo's 13.9 yards-per-catch were surpassed only by Fred Solomon's team-record 21.4 and Mike Wilson's 14.4 among Niner receivers. Nehemiah set a career high with his five receptions against the Rams (10-23-83). He accounted for 65 receiving yards in that game, 11 coming on his touchdown grab. Renaldo received the NFL's version of a "red badge on courage" in Atlanta (11-20-83), when he was knocked unconscious by a Falcon defender while attempting to catch a pass. Nehemiah responded to the hit with characteristic determination, "I'm just going to continue to go out there and catch the balls when they're thrown to me, and whatever happens, happens." Renaldo rounded back into form and aided the Niners with three catches (averaging 15.3 yards) during postseason play. Nehemiah was one of the most impressive athletes at the team's spring mini-camp according to Bill Walsh: "For the first time he showed he could use his speed to get down the field and to the ball, not just away from a defender. He showed much more confidence than before. He has made more progress than anyone on the team."

COLLEGE: Sought by colleges in three sports (football, basketball, and track), Nehemiah selected the track program at the University of Maryland and did not play college football. In the fall of '77, he began rewriting the NCAA indoor and outdoor record books, and was ranked No. 1 in the world in the 110-meter hurdles from his first day on campus until turning his attention to pro football in April, 1982.

PERSONAL: Renaldo was born in Newark, N.J., and grew up in Scotch Plains, N.J., attending high school there. A high school quarterback, he was voted New Jersey's Prep Athlete-of-the-Year as a senior. Skeets set the world record in his specialty (the 110-meter high hurdles) with a 12.93 clocking at the Weltklass International Track Meet in Zurich, Switzerland, August 19, 1981. At the time he entered professional football, Renaldo held four world indoor hurdles marks: 50 yards (5.92), 60 yards (6.82), 50 meters (6.36) and 55 meters (6.89). He first broke the world record outdoors at the 1979 Bruce Jenner Classic at San Jose (Calif.) City College, running a 13.16. Some of his major wins include: 1978 — AAU; 1979 — NCAA (12.91w), AAU (13.19), Pan Am Games (13.20), World Cup (13.39); 1980 — AAU/TAC (13.49), US Olympic Trials (13.26). Skeets won three consecutive (1981-83) U.S. Mens' Superstars competitions (an event staged for ABC-TV by Trans World International each year in Florida). And it was at the 1982 Superstars event that Nehemiah was encouraged to give the NFL a try (by 49ers' Dwight Clark, Cincinnati's Cris Collinsworth and the Jets' Mark Gastineau).

Tom Orosz • 19

PUNTER • OHIO STATE • 4TH YEAR
HT: 6-1 • WT: 204 • BORN: 9-26-59 • (TRADE IN '83)

PRO: Tom was acquired by the 49ers the week before the season opener last year. San Francisco surrendered a 12th round (1984) draft choice to the Miami Dolphins for Orosz. The punting veteran came with the reputation of an effective two-step punter who ranked high among his peers for placing the ball inside the opponents 20-yard line. Last year, Orosz averaged 39.3 yards per punt and had 16 of his kicks downed inside the 20-yard line. Tom had two punts of more than 60 yards, and averaged above 40 yards in six games in 1983. His best game of 1983 came against the Rams (10-9-83), when he had a season-high seven punts and averaged 45 yards. Tom's efforts fell off during the playoffs when he slipped to a 34.1-yard average on 12 attempts. "Tom's strength is his field presence," stated special teams coach Fred vonAppen. "He's got a feel for what is going on . . . and he doesn't rattle easily." Orosz came into the League in 1981 as a free agent, and beat out incumbent Dolphin punter George Roberts that year, averaging 40.8 yards during the regular season. He punted 35 times for a 38.7-yard average in 1982.

COLLEGE: He took his B.S. degree in industrial technology while punting three years at Ohio State University. He averaged better than 40 yards in each of his three years and set single season records with 65 punts and 2,653 yards as a senior.

PERSONAL: He was born Thomas Paul Orosz in Painesville, Ohio. Tom was a quarterback and punter at Harding High in Fairport Harbor, Ohio, where he was a four-year letterman. Orosz was Class A all-state in football and high jumped 6-6 for the Harding track team. He is single and resides in Worthington, Ohio, during the offseason.

William "Bubba" Paris • 77

TACKLE • MICHIGAN • 2ND YEAR
HT: 6-6 • WT: 295 • BORN: 10-6-60 • (D-2 IN '82)

PRO: William "Bubba" Paris made some significant changes in 1983, professional and personal changes that were manifest on the football field. During his recovery from the knee injury that deprived him of his rookie season in 1982, Paris began to battle a concern of excessive weight. By the conclusion of the '83 training camp, the lineman had dropped down to a comfortable playing weight of 285 pounds. It was also during this period that Paris gained confidence in his game and emerged as the Niners' starting left tackle, a position handed to him as a rookie prior to his '82 knee injury, but one he had to earn back last year. He started all 16 regular season and two postseason games in '83, and developed into a strong one-on-one run blocker, while improving his pass-blocking skills. "My goal is always to dominate the man in front of me," was Paris' statement when he entered the League three years ago. Last year he lived up to the that goal with fine games against many of the better defensive ends in the League. According to Bill Walsh, the play of Paris — along with tight end Russ Francis — was one of the key elements in the effective rushing of Wendell Tyler, Roger Craig, and other Niner running backs. "Bubba had a fine season, considering this was his first full year in the League," said Walsh. With continued playing time and experience, he could become one of the better tackles in the NFL." The 49ers' first pick in the '82 NFL draft (as a second round choice — 29th player selected overall), Bubba was the first offensive lineman since Randy Cross chosen first by the 49ers in the annual NFL draft (Cross was picked in the second round of 1976 as the 49ers' initial choice as a center out of UCLA). Paris also was the first offensive lineman drafted in any round by Bill Walsh.

COLLEGE: Paris earned a bundle of honors for the Wolverines while starting the final 32 games of his Michigan career. He played in three postseason all-star bowl games (Hula, Japan, Olympia Gold) and earned Walter Camp All-America, 2nd team Academic All-America, College and Pro Football Newsweekly 2nd team All-America and All-Big Ten.

PERSONAL: Bubba was born in Louisville, Ky., and attended DeSales High School in that city. He was his high school's MVP, team captain, all-state and All-America. His nickname was given him by high school teammates who compared him to former All-NFL defensive end Bubba Smith. He and his wife, Lynne, gave birth to a son, David Allen (2-3-84).

Lawrence Pillers • 65

DEFENSIVE END • ALCORN A&M • 9TH YEAR
HT: 6-4 • WT: 250 • BORN: 11-4-52 • (FA IN '80)

PRO: Lawrence Pillers is the type of player that every team would like have. If consistency is the hallmark of champions, Pillers clearly has reached that level. His play over the last four years with the Niners has been steady and sure through fame and fortune, injuries and hard luck, good times and bad. In 1983, Pillers started 13 of the 16 regular season games he played, and provided valuable contributions during the playoffs. Pillers was the leader among defensive linemen with 52 total tackles, and his four passes knocked away at the line of scrimmage also led the down linemen. Lawrence added four sacks and the first pass interception of his career to his '83 totals. He tied for team leadership with two forced fumbles and recorded the only blocked kicks (two FGs) for the Niners last year. Pillers had six total tackles and a fumble recovery during the playoffs. He played with a separated shoulder for most the 1982 season, but still managed three sacks and 27 total tackles during the nine-game season. Pillers originally was drafted by the New York Jets in the 11th round of 1976 as a linebacker (at 225), but came to camp that year at 250 with the same strength and speed (4.85 in the 40) and was moved to the line. "Pill" played in 62 games for the Jets before being released (9-23-80) by New York and claimed (9-25-80) by San Francisco in the fourth week of the 1980 season. Ironically, he had played for the Jets against the Niners the previous week.

COLLEGE: Pillers was a small college All-America as an outside linebacker at Alcorn A&M. He led a defense that topped the nation against the run as a senior (his team allowed just 159 yards on the ground in 10 games). Alcorn won the Black National Championship that season, too. He was All-Southwestern Athletic Conference three times and finished with 12 blocked punts and 15 fumble recoveries in his career.

PERSONAL: Lawrence was born in Hazlehurst, Miss., and grew up as one of 13 children. He reports to having picked cotton, pecans, and beans, and hauled pulpwood "for pocket change" as a child. A former deputy sheriff during the offseason in Port Gibson, Miss., Lawrence and his wife (former Carri L. Williams) have three daughters: LaCuri (11-28-76), LaVechelle (3-19-80), and LaMarian DeShaw (9-21-83). A 1976 health and physical education graduate of Alcorn A&M, he now calls San Mateo, Calif., his year-round home.

Fred Quillan • 56

CENTER • OREGON • 7TH YEAR
HT: 6-5 • WT: 266 • BORN: 1-27-56 • (D-7 IN '78)

PRO: Fred Quillan anchors the yeomans unit of the 49ers, the offensive line. His name and number in the starting lineup had become a familiar sight in the Niners' offense for 75 consecutive games (including playoffs) until he sprained his knee in the third quarter of the Niners-Rams contest (10-23-83). Quillan was forced out of his usual role of starting center for two games. He returned against the Saints (11-13-83) and started the final six games of the regular season and both postseason confrontations. Quillan and his mates on the offensive line allowed Niner quarterbacks to be sacked only 33 times (second lowest in NFC) in 528 passing attempts, and the unit relinquished only one sack per 40 passing attempts during the playoffs. Quillan was selected in the seventh round of the 1978 draft by San Francisco. He earned his first start for the 49ers in Game 10 of 1978 (at Atlanta, 11-5-78). Fred received that initial starting nod in '78 when Randy Cross — then the team's center — was injured and had to sit out a portion of the campaign. Cross was moved to guard upon his return to good health (because Quillan was doing so well at center).

COLLEGE: Fred played several positions at Oregon and was named an All-West Coast center as a junior. He played mostly tackle during his senior season.

PERSONAL: Quillan was born in West Palm Beach, Fla., and grew up in Portland, Ore. He graduated from Central Catholic High School in Portland and was a three-sport athlete there. He originally was recruited as a tight end by the Ducks. His NFL stats include a kickoff return for eight yards in 1978. Fred got married (Susan) during the '83 offseason (7-9-83), and the Quillans make their home in San Mateo, Calif.

STATS: Regular season games/starts - 1978 (14/7), 1979 (16/16), 1980 (16/16), 1981 (16/16), 1982 (9/9), 1983 (14/14), Career (85/78); Postseason games/starts - 1981 (3/3), 1983 (2/2), Career (5/5).

Jack Reynolds • 64

LINEBACKER • TENNESSEE • 15TH YEAR
HT: 6-1 • WT: 232 • BORN: 11-22-47 • (FA IN '81)

PRO: Jack Reynolds returns for his 15th professional season in 1984, and his fourth with the 49ers. Five or ten years at one of the more physically demanding positions in football would be more than enough for most players, but not Reynolds. He wants to play the game as hard as he can, for as long as he can. As "Hacksaw" states simply: "I enjoy playing, and my profession is that of a football player . . . I'm not saying I'll know when I can't do it anymore. But as long as I'm contributing I'll play." Reynolds' contributions in 1983 included 61 total tackles and one sack, after missing the first three games with a hamstring pull. He tied for team leadership with two forced fumbles and had as many fumble recoveries. During the playoffs Jack was fourth on the team with 12 tackles and had one defended pass. His knowledge and experience were vital in the rapid development of rookie and fellow starting inside linebacker Riki Ellison. "Jack has contributed his talents and leadership to this team over the last three years," praised Bill Walsh. Reynolds was originally drafted in the first round of 1970 by the Los Angeles Rams and spent 11 years with them, the last as a starting middle linebacker. He was named to the Pro Bowl twice (following the '75 and '80 seasons) and led the Rams in total tackles several seasons (including 1975, '76, '78, and '80). Jack started all 16 games in 1978, '79 and '80 with Los Angeles and finished with 120 (78 solo/42 assists), 144 (83 solo/61 assists), and 119 (81 solo/38 assists) tackles, respectively. The Rams released Jack (5-6-81) over a salary dispute and the 49ers signed him as a free agent (6-20-81).

COLLEGE: Reynolds was selected All-SEC and Football News All-America as a senior in 1969 and lettered three seasons (Tennessee's record was 9-2 in 1967, 8-2-1 in '68, and 9-2 in '69). The Vols played in three straight bowl games during Hacksaw's tenure — Orange, Cotton, and Gator. He earned the Simpson Theater Award as Tennessee's Outstanding Lineman in 1969 and played in the College All-Star Game in Chicago, Ill., and the Senior Bowl in Mobile, Ala., following that senior season. Jack picked up his nickname at Tennessee following a 38-0 loss to Mississippi in 1969 when he used 13 blades and a "Hacksaw" to cut a 1953 Chevy in half — out of pure frustration — following the loss. (See his own story in 1982 S.F. Media Guide for more information.)

PERSONAL: Born John Sumner Reynolds in Cincinnati, Ohio, Jack was a standout at Western Hills High School in Cincinnati before enrolling at Tennessee. He is married (Pat) and spent the offseason with her in Miami, Fla., at one of their homes. They own a new home they built on San Salvador Island in the Bahamas, and they own one in Huntington Beach, Calif. Jack lives in Redwood City during the season. A true student of the game, Reynolds reportedly has a garage full of notes on opponents.

Bill Ring • 30

RUNNING BACK • BRIGHAM YOUNG • 4TH YEAR
HT: 5-10 • WT: 205 • BORN: 12-13-56 • (FA IN '81)

PRO: "Give It All You've Got" was the title of a song commissioned for the 1980 Winter Olympics. It also could be the motto above Bill Ring's locker. Ring is the gutsy performer who serves as the Niners' special teams captain, a unit he led with 15 total tackles in 1983. He also returned four kickoffs last year in addition to his duties as backup fullback. Billy started five games in '83 at the fullback position and accounted for 254 yards rushing on an impressive 4.0-yards-per-attempt. Ring also contributed 182 yards on 23 receptions. He rushed for 52 yards and added 26 receiving yards in his best game of '83, the 49ers 24-20 win over Atlanta (9-25-83). His 504 combined yards (rushing/receiving/returns) was fourth highest total on the team. Ring averaged 5.4 yards every time he touched the ball. His receiving yardage last year bettered his two-year career output and his rushing yardage in '83 was just 35 yards shy of his career sum. All this from a man that is involved in just about every special teams duty ... 1983 was an exceptional year for one of the best all-purpose performers in the League. At the conclusion of the campaign, Bill's teammates selected him recipient of the Len Eshmont Award, given annually to a Niner for his "courageous and inspirational play" (the team's single highest honor). While speaking of Ring, all-pro guard and teammate Randy Cross offered: "You know he is not blessed with all the God-given talent in the world, but he's got more desire than probably any two other players on this team." Not bad for a guy who was not drafted following his senior year at Brigham Young University. Originally, Bill signed as a free agent with Pittsburgh (5-7-80), but was released in that team's final preseason cut (8-25-80). He signed with the 49ers a year later (4-14-81) as a free agent, but was placed on injured reserve (8-17-81) after severely cutting his hand in a collision with teammate Freddie Solomon during a warm-up exercise on Family Day at summer training camp. He was activated a month later (9-18-81), was waived (9-22-81), and was re-signed three weeks later (10-7-81), this time to stay.

COLLEGE: Bill played two years at the College of San Mateo before transferring to BYU, where he rushed for 782 yards, averaging 4.5 yards per carry. He was the MVP of the 1979 Japan Bowl.

PERSONAL: Ring was born in Des Moines, Iowa, and grew up in California. He attended Carlmont High School in Belmont and today calls San Mateo, Calif., his home. He earned his degree in finance from BYU in April, 1980. Ring is involved in many fund raisers and willingly gave of his time for more than 100 charities each of the past three offseasons. He is again a candidate for Lite NFL Man-of-the-Year honors in 1984 (sponsored by the Miller Brewing Co.), an award he won in 1983.

Jesse Sapolu • 61

GUARD • HAWAII • 2ND YEAR
HT: 6-4 • WT: 260 • BORN: 3-10-61 • (D-11 IN '83)

PRO: "Jesse was an 11th round draft choice that played like a second, or third round selection," stated offensive line coach Bob McKittrick. Jesse played in all 16 regular season games and both postseason tilts during his rookie year in the League. He started at right guard the 10th week of the season against Miami (11-6-83), when Randy Cross moved over to center — replacing the injured Fred Quillan. Sapolu also saw plenty of playing time two weeks prior versus the Rams (10-23-83), when Quillan originally was injured. Jesse's mental approach to the game helped him to make the transition from college to the pros. "The main thing I had to do was not think like a rookie," explained Sapolu. "When they called my number, I had to perform. I couldn't say to myself: 'Jesse, don't worry because you're still developing.' These are the pros, and I had to prepare myself that way." In addition to his play from scrimmage, Jesse had two solo tackles on special teams and played on the field goal and extra point protection teams. "Jesse is very quick and explosive," stated Bill Walsh. "He's strong, active, and very aggressive."

COLLEGE: Jesse started three years at guard before moving to center his senior season for the Rainbow Warriors of Hawaii. He was named to the Freshman All-America Team in 1979 and was the only sophomore selected to the All-WAC Team in 1980. He also received all-coast and All-America honorable mention awards following the '80 season.

PERSONAL: He was born Jesse Sapolu in Western Samona. He served as team captain and won all-state honors at Farrington High in Southern California, where he also lettered in track, basketball, and wrestling. Jesse resides in Honolulu, Ha., during the offseason with his wife, Melanie Ann, and their daughter, Lila Kawailehua (1-16-84). Sapolu reported to preseason training with his foot in a cast — due to a fracture which occurred while Jesse was preparing for camp.

STATS: Regular Season Games/Starts - 1983 (16/1). Postseason games/starts: 1983 (2/0).

James Scott • 82

WIDE RECEIVER • HENDERSON J.C. • (10TH YEAR/8TH NFL)
HT: 6-1 • WT: 190 • BORN: 3-28-52 • (FA IN '84)

PRO: James Scott has played nine seasons of professional football in three leagues. He began his career with the Chicago Fire of the World Football League, where he compiled 755 yards on 52 catches for eight touchdowns during his rookie year in 1974. Scott was selected by the New York Jets in the eighth round of the 1975 NFL draft, and signed with the Jets that year following the fold of the WFL. He missed the entire 1975 season with an eye injury, and was released by the Jets (and claimed by the Bears) at the beginning of the '76 season. The wide-out played in 11 games for the Bears in '76 and returned in '77 to lead the team and finished second in the NFC with 50 receptions for 809 yards and three touchdowns. He caught 99 passes and averaged 18.5 yards per reception over the next three years (1978-80) with the Bears. Scott spent the 1981 season with the Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League, where he recorded career highs of 81 catches for 1,422 yards and six touchdowns. James resigned with the Bears (3-3-82), and was credited with two receptions for 44 yards in his five games in '82. Last season, Scott played in one game for the Bears, before being placed on injured reserve (10-8-83) with a hamstring pull. He was released (11-8-83). In nine professional seasons — in the three leagues (NFL, WFL, and CFL), Scott has 310 receptions for 5,379 yards, a 17.4 average, and 34 scores. In seven NFL seasons, he has accounted for 177 catches, 3,202 yards, an 18.1 average, and 20 touchdowns.

COLLEGE: Scott was an all-conference receiver at Henderson County Junior College in Athens, where he totaled 100 catches in two seasons.

PERSONAL: He was born James Scott in Longview, Tex., and prepped at Gladewater (Tex.) High. One of a few players to play in three different leagues, Scott lives in Dallas during the offseason.

Tom Skladany • 1

PUNTER • OHIO STATE • 7TH YEAR
HT: 5-11 • WT: 195 • BORN: 6-29-55 • (FA IN '84)

PRO: The Niners acquired their second punter with an Ohio State background when they signed Tom Skladany in June. Skladany joins former Buckeye, and current Niners' incumbent, Tom Orosz in battle for the punting duties. Skladany has been through six previous NFL seasons, five with the Detroit Lions (1978-'82) and one (he played in four games) with the Philadelphia Eagles last year. A former second-round draft choice of the Cleveland Browns in 1977, Tom was traded conditionally by Cleveland to Detroit after he sat out the entire '77 season when contract negotiations reached an impasse. Skladany led the NFC, and was selected to the conference all-star team by Sporting News, with a 42.5-yard punting average during his rookie season in '78. A back injury kept Tom on injured reserve (8-28-79 to 12-6-79) forcing him to miss all but two games in 1979. He returned in 1980 and averaged 42.2 yards per punt while appearing in all 16 games. The 1981 season saw Tom average 43.5 yards and lead the League with a 37.3 net average. In seven games during the 1982 season, Tom averaged 41.2 yards. He signed with Philadelphia as a free agent for the 1983 season and played in the first four games for the Eagles, averaging 39.3 yards on 27 punts.

COLLEGE: Tom took his B.S. degree in business administration while earning All-America honors three times in Ohio State. He set Big Ten career (42.7) and season (46.7) marks at OSU and added a 59-yard field goal to his credits.

PERSONAL: He was born Thomas Edward Skladany in Castle Shannon, Pa., and attended Bethel Park, Pa., High School. He and his wife, Debbie, and son, Erin, live in the Detroit area during the offseason.

Freddie Solomon • 88

WIDE RECEIVER • TAMPA • 10TH YEAR
HT: 5-11 • WT: 188 • BORN: 1-11-53 • (TRADE IN '78)

PRO: Most seasoned NFL veterans would do anything to delay reporting to the drudgery of the summer conditioning and training camp . . . last year Freddie Solomon checked in well in advance of the required date. The extra work must have been beneficial because Solomon established a team record with his 21.4-yard average per reception in 1983. Solomon had collected 520 yards and 25 receptions through the first half of the season before sustaining a pulled muscle in the Niners-Rams contest (10-23-83). That injury kept him out of the next four games as San Francisco fell from 6-2, to 7-5 without Freddie in the lineup. The ex-Miami Dolphin returned for the stretch drive, aiding the Niners to their stunning, 42-17, victory over Dallas (12-19-83) with his 77-yard catch-and-run for a touchdown. That score was the 49ers' longest play from scrimmage during the '83 season. The fleet wide receiver had back-to-back 100-yard receiving games early in the year. Against St. Louis (9-18-83), he caught three passes for 121 yards and two scores, one on a 69-yard bomb. The next week (9-25-83) Freddie had 103 yards on six catches versus Atlanta. The 100-yard games raised his career total to 12 and stood as the only 100-yard days for any Niners' receiver last year. Solomon finished the regular season with 31 receptions (5th on the team), 662 yards (2nd on the team), and four touchdowns. When injuries eliminated Dana McLemore from the lineup, Solomon returned five punts for 34 yards. Freddie caught six passes for 122 yards (20.3 average) during the playoffs. His dramatic fourth quarter catch in which he outran the Washington Redskins secondary for a 76-yard touchdown brought San Francisco to within seven points of the Skins in the NFC Championship Game. Solomon ranks fourth in catches (306) and third in yardage (4,850) among all-time Niners' receivers. Since coming to San Francisco from Miami, Solomon has averaged 41 receptions and 646 yards per season. "Freddie is just a super person, and he is an outstanding team player," proclaimed Bill Walsh. "He brings a great feeling to his teammates and he is willing to sacrifice for others." Solomon originally was drafted 2A by Miami in 1975. He played three seasons for the Dolphins before coming to San Francisco prior to the 1978 campaign. In 1980, he became the first 49er in history to return two punts for scores in a single season and was named All-NFC as a punt returner by Pro-Football Weekly.

COLLEGE: Solomon played quarterback at the University of Tampa for four years (1971-74), rushing for 39 TDs and passing for 11 others during his career. He had 17 games with 100-or-more yards rushing and his career totals were 3,299 yards on 557 carries and 2,504 yards on 188 completions in 436 attempts. He played in the College All-Star Game in Chicago in '75.

PERSONAL: Freddie was born in Sumter, S.C., and attended Sumter High School. He and his wife (former Delilah Jeffers) split their offseason time between their homes in Redwood City, Calif., and Tampa, Fla. He once had an amazing 252-yard, three-TD game against Buffalo (1976), when he scored on a 79-yard punt return, a 59-yard flanker reverse, and a 53-yard pass reception for the Miami Dolphins. Over the past few years, Freddie has become more and more involved with charitable organizations and his favorite charity is the National Kidney Foundation. He sponsors celebrity golf tournaments in both California and Florida (and this past off-season those two events grossed nearly $40,000 together), among other fund raisers, for NKF each spring. Fred earned his P.E. degree in April, 1975, from Tampa. He was selected 49ers' NFL Man-of-the-Year for 1982 (sponsored by Miller Brewing Co.) as the team's "outstanding citizen-athlete." He is a candidate again in 1984 for the same Lite NFL Man-of-the-Year award.

Jeff Stover • 72

NOSE TACKLE • OREGON • 3RD YEAR
HT: 6-5 • WT: 275 • BORN: 5-22-58 • (FA IN '82)

PRO: Jeff Stover spent his sophomore season in the NFL as a valuable utility player on the Niners' defensive line. He played in all 16 regular season games and accounted for 16 total tackles and 2½ quarterback sacks. Jeff also forced a fumble and had one fumble recovery, as he continued to show improvement in only his second season of football since his senior year in high school, back in 1975. His ability to play all of the defensive line positions provides an extra dimension to the defensive scheme. Jeff has been able to learn a lot in a short amount of time. In 1982, Stover was working as a carpenter, building houses in Chico, Calif., regretting never having played football beyond high school. He decided to find out if he could still play. Jeff asked former Niner Leon Donohue, a friend and Shasta College football coach, to help. Donohue called Seattle first since the Seahawks were in Jeff's college "neighborhood," and they expressed an interest, but when Donohue called San Francisco, the Niners immediately paid his way for a tryout. "I ran a 4.7 40 for the 49ers, and the rest is history as they say," explains Stover.

STOVER, Cont.

COLLEGE: Jeff did not play football for the Ducks; instead he threw the hammer and put the shot for Oregon's perennially powerful track and field team. He still ranks third among the all-time Oregon shot putters (68-4½ personal record from 1980) and seventh among the career hammer throwers (193-1 personal record from '79). Stover was a four-year letterman (1977-'80) in that sport in Eugene and won the Pac-10 shot crown as a sophomore (64-9½) and senior (64-1¾). He was fourth in 1979.

PERSONAL: Jeff Owen Stover was born in Corning, Calif., and attended high school there. He played fullback and defensive end at Corning High. He is married (Lori) and they make their offseason home in Chico, Calif. During the 1983 offseason, Jeff and Lori had a baby girl — Stefanie Lynn (3-22-83). 49ers' veteran offensive tackle Keith Fahnhorst describes Jeff as "so damn strong, it's unbelievable (he can "clean" 400 pounds — that's a weight lift from the floor to above the shoulders in one motion). I remember the first time I lined up from him, he shocked me with his quickness and strength."

Jim Stuckey • 79

DEFENSIVE END • CLEMSON • 5TH YEAR
HT: 6-4 • WT: 253 • BORN: 6-21-58 • (D-1B IN '80)

PRO: "Jim Stuckey is one of the most disciplined team guys we have," stated defensive line coach Bill McPherson. "He worked real hard during the offseason and came back and did an excellent job last year. Jim's assets include the fact that he really understands what the opposing offense is doing. He plays within the framework of our defense, and makes very few errors." "Stuck" provided solid play through all regular and postseason games last year. He contributed 27 total tackles (4th among linemen) and had 2½ quarterback sacks. He has been described by those that follow the 49ers as a "ferocious run defender," who also serves as a strong-side pass rusher in the team's nickel defense. Jim started the first two games of the season at right defensive end and he opened at left defensive end against the Saints (10-16-83). Stuckey was the starter for both playoff contests at the left end position, and had four total tackles in the NFC Championship Game versus Washington (1-8-84). After being drafted 1B

(20th player selected overall) in '80, "Stuck" ignored an ankle injury, a hip pointer, and the pressures that go with being a rookie starter in the NFL, to lead the squad in quarterback sacks with 8½ and earn All-Rookie honors. His second season was not bad either, highlighted by a "game saving" fumble recovery in the closing seconds of the 1981 NFC Championship Game with Dallas (1-10-82).

COLLEGE: Stuckey was a two-year All-America at Clemson and one of 12 finalists for the Lombardi Trophy in 1979. He was All-Atlantic Coast Conference three straight seasons and played in the Senior and Hula bowls following his career with the Tigers. In four seasons (he became a starter in the eighth game of his freshman year), Jim piled up 267 tackles (146 unassisted), 28 tackles-for-loss, four passes defended, one fumble recovery, and one intercepted pass.

PERSONAL: Born in Columbia, S.C., Jim attended Airport High School in Columbia. He splits his time between Foster City, Calif., and Clemson, S.C., during the offseason.

Manu Tuiaosopo • 78

DEFENSIVE TACKLE • UCLA • 6TH YEAR
HT: 6-3 • WT: 252 • BORN: 8-30-57 • (TRADE IN '84)

PRO: In a move expected to reap large dividends this season, the Niners searched the market for an experienced defensive lineman with the ability to play nose tackle. The team found such a commodity when it acquired Manu Tuiaosopo from the Seattle Seahawks (4-4-84). The Niners sent Seattle a fourth-round draft choice in 1984 and a 10th-round selection in '85 for the former first-rounder from UCLA. Tuiaosopo was the 18th player chosen in the first round of the 1979 draft. He did not miss a single regular season game (73) during his career with the Seahawks, and also saw action during Seattle's three playoff contests last year. He has 64 career starts and has played defensive end, defensive tackle, and nose tackle. Tuiasosopo was named to the All-Rookie team after starting 16 games at right defensive tackle in '79. He played defensive end for the 'Hawks for the majority of the '81 season, but was switched back to tackle in 1982. Manu was the starter at the nose tackle position in Seattle's 3-4 defensive alignment for the first eight games of '83, and concluded the year with 26 total tackles and one-half sack. He is the Seahawks' all-time sack leader with 20½, including a single season high of eight in 1980. According to coach Bill Walsh, Manu is "an outstanding athlete and a fierce competitor."

COLLEGE: Manu was a second team All-America in both his junior and senior years at UCLA. He was a starter on the 1976 UCLA Rose Bowl team that defeated Ohio State, and he finished his senior season with 101 tackles, second only to current Philadelphia Eagle linebacker Jerry Robinson.

PERSONAL: He was born Manu'ula (Happy Bird) Asovalu Tuiasosopo in Los Angeles, Calif. He played football and competed in the shot put for St. Anthony's High of Long Beach, Calif. He and his wife, Tina, have three children and make their offseason home in Woodinville, Wash.

Keena Turner • 58

LINEBACKER

PURDUE

5TH YEAR

HT: 6-2

WT: 219

BORN: 10-22-58

(D-2 IN '80)

PRO: "Keena Turner's play sets the standards for everyone on our team," praises Bill Walsh. He is extremely versatile, and we use him in both run and pass situations. His efforts over the years have made him one of the outstanding linebackers in the League." In 1983, Keena again displayed the form that has endeared him with 49ers' fans. His presence on the field translates into security and stability for the Niners defense, which is why he is the only member of the "front seven" defensive players who remains in the game when the team substitutes into its nickel defense. His skill and versatility have propelled him to a status among the team's leaders, along with being one of the more valuable players on the squad. Turner's speed allowed him to run down plays from his weak-side linebacker position in '83, producing 64 total tackles (second among linebackers, fifth overall). He ruined the oppositions' passing games to the tune of 3½ quarterback sacks and 10 passes defended last year, and he administered the 'hit of the year' in St. Louis with his thunderous first quarter tackle of Cardinal running back Ottis Anderson after a pass reception. He elevated his level of play during the 1983 playoffs, recording 11 solo (14 total tackles) in the two games. Keena picked off his first pass of the year and returned it 11 yards in the divisional playoff contest against Detroit (12-31-83). Entering '84, he has started 46 of the Niners' last 50 games (including playoffs). Turner's 254 total tackles since 1980 have been exceeded only by Dwight Hicks' 281 stops during the last four seasons. He was a second team all-pro (by NEA) in 1982 when he accounted for 58 tackles and one sack. Keena was drafted in the second round of '80 (behind two first round picks — Earl Cooper and Jim Stuckey) and finished his initial campaign with 48 tackles and two interceptions. During San Francisco's championship season, he started 14 times during the season and all three playoff games.

COLLEGE: Turner was a two-time All-America and an All-Big Ten pick as one of Purdue's tri-captains. The Boilermaker MVP as a junior, Keena's senior stats included 11 tackles against UCLA, ten tackles, two QB sacks and two forced fumbles versus Ohio State, and 11 tackles against Illinois. He had 57 tackles-for-loss totaling 345 yards during his three years as a starting defensive end and played in the Japan and Hula bowls following his Purdue career.

PERSONAL: Keena was born in Chicago, Ill., and is a product of Chicago's Vocational High School (CVS) — the same school that produced Dick Butkus (former Chicago Bears great). About his unique first name, Keena, explains: "My mother (Decy) named me after a little Indian boy on a TV program." Turner was married (6-12-82) to the former Therese Hopkins, his college girlfriend, and they are expecting their first child this fall. When Turner had chicken pox during the 1981 playoffs, teammates joked with him: "Why don't you go line up in their huddle, not our huddle?" Keena's sideline routine in those games: "I just kept my helmet on and wouldn't look at the cameras. I looked awful."

Wendell Tyler • 26

RUNNING BACK • UCLA • 7TH YEAR
HT: 5-10 • WT: 200 • BORN: 5-20-55 • (TRADE IN '83)

PRO: When the Niners acquired Wendell Tyler from divisional rival Los Angeles the day before the 1983 collegiate draft, it was expected that he would contribute mightily to the team's rather slight running attack of the previous year. And Wendell lived up to his advance billing by leading the team with 856 yards rushing. His juking style, and breakaway speed, have given the 49ers their first legitimate game-breaker from the offensive backfield since the days of Delvin Williams in the mid-70's. Wendell was among the League leaders with five runs of 20-or-more yards. Four of those runs were more than 30 yards, and two resulted in touchdowns. His 39-yard run versus Minnesota (9-8-83) was his longest of the year (he had a 55-yarder against Tampa Bay nullified by penalty). His 4.9 average per rushing attempt was the best in the League among runners with 150 or more carries. The former UCLA Bruin was off to one of his best starts of his seven-year career when he suffered a shoulder separation against Atlanta in Week 4 (9-25-83). Tyler had rushed for 288 yards and averaged 6.0 yards per attempt during the first three weeks of the year. His 107 yards versus Minnesota (9-8-83) marked the first time a Niner running back exceeded the 100 yard mark in a game since Lenvil Elliott's feat of Dec. 7, 1980. He followed that effort with 108 yards running against St. Louis (9-18-83), a week later. The next week, the explosive Tyler had only three running attempts before sustaining the shoulder injury that kept him out of the remainder of the Falcon contest (9-25-83). He did not play the following two weeks, but returned, wearing a protective shoulder harness, to face the Saints (10-16-83) and rushed for 87 yards. "I feel like Humpty Dumpty," said Tyler while removing the harness. "They've put me back together again." Included in his Saints game total was a 34-yard touchdown run in which he pulled a New Orleans defender the final five yards into the end zone. The halfback averaged more than seven yards a carry while compiling 85 yards in the Niners' loss to Miami (11-6-83), and he came back the next week with 92 yards in 16 attempts in a victory over the Saints (11-13-83). Tyler's third 100-yard game of 1983 came Dec. 4, versus Tampa Bay, when he logged 102 yards. A valuable receiver in the Niners' offense, Wendell scored two of his six touchdowns in '83 as a pass-catcher. His 34 receptions were third on the team behind Dwight Clark (70) and Roger Craig (48). With 285 receiving yards, combined with his 856 rushing total, Wendell accounted for 1,141 total yards, second only to Craig's 1,152 all-purpose yards. During the playoffs, Tyler was the teams' all-purpose yardage leader with 150, averaging 5.0 yards every time he handled the ball. Wendell played five years with the Rams prior to the deal that sent him, defensive lineman Cody Jones, and a third round draft choice (59th overall) to the Niners for San Francisco's second and fourth round (36th and 87th) picks from the '83 draft. The Los Angeles prep product had two 1,000-yard seasons with the Rams as he compiled 1,109 yards in 1979 and 1,074 yards in 1981. A hip injury received in an auto accident forced Tyler to miss most of the 1980 season. He ran for 564 yards during the nine-game 1982 season. Wendell ranks among the League leaders in touchdowns scored over the last three seasons with 36 tallies. Starting offensive guard John Ayers offered this lineman's view of Tyler's ability: "Subconsciously or not, I think that we have a little more incentive because every time we walk up to the line we know in our minds that there is a chance he can break it all the way."

COLLEGE: Tyler gained 3,181 yards during his four-year UCLA career and was named AP All-America and All-Pac 8. He gained 172 yards in the Bruins' 23-10 win over Ohio State in the '76 Rose Bowl, including a 57-yard TD run and capped his fine career with appearances in the East-West Shrine and Senior Bowl games

PERSONAL: He was born Wendell Avery Tyler in Shreveport, La., but moved to California at an early age and attended Crenshaw High School in Los Angeles. He and his wife, Carmen, call West Covina, Calif., their offseason home. They have two children: a daughter, Candace (12-24-78), and son, Wendell Avery, Jr. (12-14-81).

OTHER STATS: Kickoff Returns - 1977 (24, 523 yards, 21.8 average, 27 long), 1978 (2, 31, 15.5, 21), 1979 (1, 16, 16.0, 16), Playoffs (2, 43, 21.5, 27, 1 TD), Career (27, 570, 21.1, 27, 1 TD).

Ray Wersching • 14

KICKER • CALIFORNIA • 12TH YEAR
HT: 5-11 • WT: 210 • BORN: 8-21-50 • (FA IN '77)

PRO: Ray Wersching moved a step up on the 49ers' all-time scoring list and a notch closer to perfection in 1983. His team-record 126 points scored last year raised his Niners' total to 558 points, exceeding Bruce Gossett's 460 and bettered only by Gordy Soltau's 644 and Tommy Davis' 738 total points scored as a 49er. Ray converted all 51 PATs, and did not miss a field goal inside 40 yards in 1983. He had hit on his first eight attempts of the season when his 51-yard placement was blocked by the Rams' Ivory Sully on the last play of that game (10-9-83). That block ensured the Rams' 10-7 victory over the Niners. Wersching rebounded the following week against the Saints (10-16-83) with a team-record six field goals, including a career-long 52-yard boot. His 20 points in the New Orleans contest also established a team record for single game points scored by a kicker. Ray was awarded the "Golden Toe-of-the-Week" by Pro Football Weekly for his exploits versus the Saints. Wersching had three more successful attempts following the Saints game to run his second string of the season to nine, before missing from 46 yards out (10-30-83 vs. the Jets). He hit on eight of his last 11 attempts to conclude the regular season. Ray suffered through a 1-5 postseason, although the four misses were from 45-or-more yards away, and two of the attempts were from distances of greater than 50 yards. His playoff performance record of '83 differs sharply from his career marks with the team. Ray has led the Niners in scoring for the past six seasons. He has converted 114 of his 153 field goal attempts with San Francisco, and this .745 field goal accuracy percentage is the best of any kicker in Niners' history. Ray's 114 field goals are 16 short of the all-time team record of 130, held by Tommy Davis. A highlight to his career probably came in San Francisco's 26-21 Super Bowl XVI win over Cincinnati (1-24-82), when Wersching had the Bengals backed up against the wall with his squib kickoffs and tied a Super Bowl record with four field goals (22, 26, 40, and 23 yards). Originally, Ray was signed as a free agent by San Diego in 1973, released (9-6-76) in 1976, and re-signed (10-16-76) that same season. He was released by the Chargers again in August of '77 and signed by San Francisco (10-16-77) later that season.

WERSCHING, Cont.

COLLEGE: Ray attended Cerritos JC and the University of California (Berkeley), and had outstanding careers at both schools.

PERSONAL: Born Raimund Wersching in Mondsee, Austria, he grew up in California and attended Earl Warren High School in Downey, Calif. He has a bachelor's degree from Cal in accounting and works in San Diego during the offseason as a CPA for Price Waterhouse Company. Wersching toured USO Installations in Europe with four others in the trip sponsored by NFLPA this offseason. He also won a new Dodge for being selected "Most Congenial" among 14 NFL place kickers during the "North American Pro Kickoff" competition held in Ottumwa, Iowa, this spring. He's been nicknamed "Mo" by teammates for the following reasons — take your pick: short for "Mo-chine" as in "Wersching Mochine" . . . or short for "La Mo-chine" as in his kicking is as automatic as a machine . . . or short for "Mo-hair" as in he has "Mo-hair" on his body than anyone else on the team. Ray had a rare distinction for a kicker in Super Bowl XVI by initiating five consecutive plays, each of which resulted in time elapsing on the game clock: Play 1 — 22-yard FG; Play 2 — kicked off, fumbled by Cincinnati; Play 3 — 26-yard FG; Play 4 — kicked off as first half ended; Play 5 — kicked off to begin second half.

Carlton Williamson • 27

SAFETY • PITTSBURGH • 4TH YEAR
HT: 6-0 • WT: 204 • BORN: 6-12-58 • (D-3 IN '81)

PRO: 1983 should have been the year that Carlton Williamson broke through and received much deserved recognition as one of the premier strong safeties in the game. However, a broken left leg suffered during the Niners' 1983 preseason game in L.A. — against the Raiders (8-6-83) — kept this jarring tackler out of the lineup for the first seven regular season games. He returned for the Niners-Rams clash (10-23-83) wearing a leg brace that forced him to wear a left shoe one size larger than the right and immediately asserted his presence with 12 total tackles, including a career high nine solo stops. Carlton had his first of four interceptions of '83 versus the Saints (11-13-83). He recorded six solo tackles and had two interceptions in the Niners' victory against Tampa Bay (12-4-83). He averaged better than six tackles a game while concluding the year with 58 total tackles. Additionally, Williamson was credited with five passes defended and one forced fumble. His Pro-Bowl caliber play during the second half of the year carried over into the playoffs as he led the team in tackles. Carlton's 21 hits (18 solo stops) were tops among Niners' defenders during the postseason. He recorded a personal best with 11 solo tackles against Detroit (12-31-83) in the divisional playoff contest. He has started 32 of the 33 games he's played as a Niner — he missed a start last year against the Chicago Bears (11-27-83). The fourth player taken by San Francisco as a third round choice in 1981 (65th overall selection), Williamson was named to the NFL All-Rookie Team (UPI, Pro Football Writers Association and Football Digest).

COLLEGE: Williamson led the Pitt defensive backs in tackling as both a junior and a senior. He was recruited by Pittsburgh as a fullback and switched to defense to make the traveling squad, then took over at strongside safety in his junior year. He had 65 tackles as a junior and 46 in 1980. Carlton intercepted seven career passes and had 7½ quarterback sacks on blitzes. He earned his urban science degree from Pitt in summer of 1981.

PERSONAL: Carlton was born in Atlanta Ga., and grew up there. He attended Brown High School in Atlanta, and was an All-America schoolboy quarterback. He calls Atlanta home in the offseason and lives in San Mateo during the season.

Mike Wilson • 85

WIDE RECEIVER • WASHINGTON STATE • 4TH YEAR
HT: 6-3 • WT: 210 • BORN: 12-19-58 • (FA IN '81)

PRO: Mike Wilson enters 1984 coming off his most productive season, and most productive game of his short three-year career. Clearly, Mike's star is on the rise. He was the bright spot in the fourth quarter uprising, that knotted the score at 21, in the NFC Championship Game against the Redskins (1-8-84). Wilson's two fourth-quarter touchdown receptions (seven and 15 yards) provided San Francisco with its first and last scores of the game. His eight receptions in the championship game were one short of the club's postseason record of nine held by Billy Wilson. He was the leader among Niners wide receivers during the playoffs with nine catches. Mike started the two postseason contests in place of the injured Dwight Clark. The former Washington State receiver subbed for Freddie Solomon during a three-game streak in November, and took advantage of that starting opportunity to haul in 11 passes and average better than 13 yards a catch. He established a career best with six catches and 81 yards in a non-starting performance against the Bears in Chicago (11-27-83). Last year alone, Mike more than doubled his career marks in receptions and yards. He concluded the season with 30 catches and 433 yards. Wilson had four catches of 30-or-more yards, including a career long of 49 yards versus Minnesota (9-8-83). His 14.4 average per reception was second only to Freddie Solomon's team-record 21.4-yard average among Niners' pass-catchers. Mike's play last season drew high praise from Bill Walsh: "Mike played well and improved last year. He's quick, explosive, and very intelligent. He has really become a beautiful and polished craftsman." Originally, Wilson was drafted by Dallas in the ninth round of '81, but was released in training camp (8-24-81). The 49ers signed him three days later (8-27-81), and Mike played in all 19 games as a rookie. A highlight to his '81 campaign was a key 22-yard reception in Super Bowl XVI which kept alive an important fourth-period 49ers' drive.

COLLEGE: Wilson caught 47 passes for 716 yards and six TDs in three seasons at Washington State. He also rushed for 176 yards on 11 carries.

PERSONAL: Mike captained the football and basketball teams and was a sprinter on the track team at Carson High in Carson, Calif. He was All-America in basketball and football there as well. He was born in Los Angeles and grew up in Carson.

Eric Wright • 21

CORNERBACK • MISSOURI • 4TH YEAR
HT: 6-1 • WT: 180 • BORN: 4-18-59 • (D-2B IN '81)

PRO: When a guy leads in interceptions and is second in tackles on a team with a 10-6 record — the guy is doing something right — or in this case something Wright. Eric Wright put together a season that was equaled by few, if any, NFL pass defenders in 1983. Eric's 164 interception-return yards led the League, and he tied for NFL honors with two interception returns for touchdowns. His career-high seven interceptions were bettered only by Lionel Washington (St. Louis) among NFC cornerbacks. Wright's pickoff, and 48-yard TD return in the season finale against the Cowboys (12-19-83), paved the way to a victory that clinched the Niners' home-field advantage for the first round of the conference playoffs. His second quarter theft, and 60-yard touchdown return, versus the Vikings (9-8-83), sparked a rally that concluded in a 48-17 romp (it stands as the fifth longest interception return for a score in the team's history). That was one of three interceptions Wright had in the Viking contest (marking the first time a Niners' defender has picked off three passes in one game since Anthony Leonard's tri-interception performance against Cincinnati, Oct. 1, 1978). He established a career high, and was second on the team, with 80 total tackles, including 69 solo stops. Eric also led the team with 19 passes defended, and had one fumble recovery. During the playoffs, the former Missouri Tiger accounted for nine total tackles, and intercepted a pass on the final play of the first half of the NFC Championship Game in Washington (1-8-84). Wright's season didn't go unnoticed as he was named All-NFC by United Press International. This recognition gave the Niners the unique tandem of starting cornerbacks with All-Conference status; as Ronnie Lott was named All-NFC by Pro Football Weekly and was on the second team of the UPI selections. The Lott-Wright twosome combined for 188 tackles and 11 interceptions. Their 35 passes defended was more than one-third of the team's total. They ranked in the top two in just about every defensive category for the 49ers last year. Wright was the 40th player taken in the 1981 NFL draft (2B by the 49ers) and started all 19 games as a rookie for the world champs. He was the team's sixth leading tackler with 75 stops and paced the squad in passes defended with 24. He also participated in two of the featured plays of Super Bowl XVI — an interception of a Ken Anderson pass intended for Cris Collinsworth late in the fourth quarter (that theft gave the 49ers a possession — following Wright's 25-yard return — that led to their final field goal of the game and thwarted a Bengals' scoring opportunity). And he forced a fumble on the Niners' 9-yard line by Collinsworth following a reception in the second quarter (Wright stripped him of the ball and that possession led to San Francisco's second TD of the afternoon). Wright also is credited with a game saving tackle in the NFC Championship Game that paved the way for the 49ers' trip to Michigan. On that play, he collared Drew Pearson from behind following a 31-yard reception at the Niners' 44-yard line (he was the only San Francisco defender near or between Pearson and the goal).

COLLEGE: Wright was a free safety throughout college at Missouri and was a three-year starter. He was named All-America by AP and UPI as a junior when he notched a career-high 55 tackles and made honorable mention All-America (AP and Sporting News) his senior season. He played cornerback on the North squad (coached by the 49ers' coaching staff) at the Senior Bowl in Mobile, Ala. Eric had five interceptions and three fumble recoveries in 1980, and his 47 tackles gave him 156 for his career (94 solo). He had three interceptions against San Diego State for a Tiger record (including one for 77 yards and a score) and ended his career with 11 thefts and seven fumble recoveries.

PERSONAL: Born in St. Louis, Mo., Eric grew up in East St. Louis, Ill., where he attended Assumption High School. He married the former Alvita Nickas (6-26-82), a graduate of Stephens College in Columbia, Mo., during the 1982 offseason.

1984 49ers' Draftees

TODD SHELL

JOHN FRANK

ROUND 1 — TODD SHELL, LB, BYU

The San Francisco 49ers used the 24th pick of the first round to select Todd Shell, a 6-4, 225-pound linebacker from Brigham Young University.

Shell, who averaged over 100 tackles in each of his last two years at BYU, is the first linebacker selected No. 1 by the 49ers in the club's history. The Niners have picked linebackers in the first round, but Shell is the first linebacker to be chosen with the team's initial pick of a draft. Dan Bunz, for example, was selected 1-B in 1978 behind TE Ken MacAfee at 1-A.

Considered a "big play" type athlete with good blitzing abilities, Shell was described by 49ers' President-Head Coach Bill Walsh as an "outstanding athlete." Shell was credited with 14 sacks as a senior in 1983 and he made at least five tackles in each game. He also had an interception and 11 passes defended.

Shell has the size and speed to play in the nickel on passing plays, and to cover running backs from his outside linebacker position.

His best single game as a senior was Colorado State when he recorded 14 tackles, two sacks, and an interception. He had 12 tackles, or more, on two other occasions.

A first team Western Athletic Conference choice in both 1982 and '83, Shell was clocked in 4.62 for the 40-yard dash by pro scouts. He ended his collegiate career with 272 total tackles and seven fumble recoveries.

He was the 11th linebacker chosen in the draft by the 49ers under Walsh. The others were Tom Seabron (1979, Michigan), Keena Turner (1980, Purdue), Craig Puki (1980, Tennessee), David Hodge (1980, Houston), Bobby Leopold (1980, Notre Dame), Ron Ferrari (1982, Illinois), Gary Gibson (1982, Arizona), Blanchard Montgomery (1983, UCLA), Riki Ellison (1983, Southern California), Gary Moten (1983, Southern Methodist).

A Senior Bowl participant following 1983, Todd was born June 26, 1962, and is married (Kelli Gardner) with one son (Tanner).

ROUND 2 — JOHN FRANK, TE, OHIO STATE

John Frank, a 6-3, 225-pound tight end from Ohio State, became the second selection of the San Francisco 49ers, and the 56th overall in the '84 draft.

Frank had a fine 1983 season for the Buckeyes, catching 45 passes for 641 yards and four touchdowns. He finished his career at OSU first among tight ends and second among all-time OSU receivers with 121 catches.

First team All-Big Ten following his junior and senior years by UPI and AP, he was a three-year starter in Columbus.

Co-captain of the Buckeyes his senior year, Frank was named the team's most valuable and most inspirational player. He also was selected Academic All-America as a junior and senior. John was awarded "Lineman-of-the-Week" honors eight times last season by his coaches.

A pre-med major, he has been accepted into Ohio State's Medical School, and was the recipient of the NCAA's "Top-Five" Award in 1983.

The 49ers acquired Frank with the 56th pick, following a trade with the Los Angeles Raiders that sent San Francisco's second choice (51st overall) to L.A. in exchange for the Raiders' second round pick (56th overall) and a fifth round selection that the Raiders acquired from Washington.

Frank, who has been timed in 4.57 over 40 yards, was a Hula Bowl participant last year. He was born April 17, 1962.

ROUND 3 — GUY MCINTYRE, G, GEORGIA

San Francisco swung an 11th-hour deal with the St. Louis Cardinals to draft offensive guard Guy McIntyre, a 6-3, 271-pounder from the University of Georgia, in the third round of the draft. A tackle in college, he'll be a guard in the NFL.

To secure McIntyre, the 49ers switched places with the Cardinals, moving up to 17th from 24th in that round. San Francisco awarded St. Louis the 49ers' own selection in the fifth round (136th overall) along with the club's third round pick (80th overall).

A fifth-year senior, McIntyre was originally recruited as a tight end. He earned the starting right tackle job as a junior (1982), after redshirting the 1980 season due to a back injury. McIntyre was named AP second team All-America and first team All-Southeastern Conference by both AP and UPI in '83.

Additional senior honors included the Jacobs' Blocking Trophy (awarded to the outstanding offensive lineman in the SEC by the coaches) and selection to the Japan Bowl. He was born February 17, 1961, in Thomasville, Georgia.

ROUND 5A — MICHAEL CARTER, NT, SMU

The 49ers made their third trade of the day to draft Michael Carter, a 6-2, 281-pound defensive tackle/nose tackle from Southern Methodist University in the fifth round.

To choose Carter, San Francisco exchanged a fifth round draft pick (20th in the round/132nd overall) — acquired from Denver, and a sixth round choice (163rd overall), with the Atlanta Falcons for their fifth round pick (9th in the round/121st overall).

Carter, a world class shot putter with Olympic aspirations, is the only four-time NCAA Indoor Shot Put Champion in history of the collegiate sport. He won the outdoor crown three times and placed second in the '84 NCAA meet despite throwing a lifetime best 71-4¾.

An All-Southwest Conference first teamer as a senior, Carter was a second team UPI All-America selection in '83 when he tied for team leadership (among defensive linemen) with 65 tackles. He also registered four sacks and three tackles for losses last year.

His interest and talent in the shot put almost kept Carter out of football last season, when he nearly gave up his senior campaign at SMU to concentrate on his track and field speciality.

The sociology major finished his collegiate football career with 238 total tackles, including a single season high of 75 in 1982. He was named Most Valuable Defensive Player in the 1980 Holiday Bowl.

Michael married his high school sweetheart, Sandra Porter, this past April. He was born October 29, 1960.

ROUND 5B — JEFF FULLER, LB/S, TEXAS A&M

Jeff Fuller, a 6-2, 216-pound outside linebacker/safety from Texas A&M, was selected by the 49ers as their second pick in the fifth round.

The 49ers acquired the pick from the Los Angeles Raiders in a trade consummated earlier in the day when San Francisco and Los Angeles swapped positions in the second round and the Raiders included the 27th pick in Round 5 (which the 49ers used to tab Fuller).

Fuller was credited with 55 tackles and three interceptions in 1983. He also led the Aggies in 1982 with 90 tackles, including 75 unassisted. A Dallas native, Fuller also had a team-leading four interceptions and two quarterback sacks that year.

A defensive back his first two seasons, Fuller made the successful transition to linebacker prior to his junior year. He has excellent speed for his size, having been timed at 4.49 in the 40. Jeff was born on August 8, 1962, in Dallas.

ROUND 9A — LEE MILLER, CB, FULLERTON

Lee Miller, a 6-1, 186-pound defensive back from Cal State-Fullerton was the first of two ninth round selections by the 49ers.

Miller was fourth in the country among pass interceptors last year with seven for 233 yards and two touchdowns. He finished his career with 14 steals for 377 yards. Both are school records.

A junior college transfer, Miller won All-Pacific Coast Athletic Association honors as a "walk-on" during the 1981 season. He repeated as an All-PCAA performer in '83 with his league-leading interception total.

The Los Angeles native has 4.6 speed in the 40-yard dash. He missed the final two games of his senior year with his left upper arm broken in three places. Miller comes from a school that has produced three current defensive backs in the NFL, Johnnie Gray (Packers) Bobby Kemp (Bengals), and Lucious Smith (Chiefs).

A former basketball and track performer at Locke High School in Los Angeles, Miller doubled as a punt returner for the Titans. He returned 25 punts for 184 yards and one touchdown last year.

The "big play" back had 52 tackles and one sack in addition to his seven pass interceptions in 1983. The highlight of his year was a 91-yard touchdown return of an intercepted pass versus Idaho State. Lee was born January 25, 1961.

ROUND 9B — DERRICK HARMON, RB, CORNELL

With its second pick of the ninth round (24/248), San Francisco selected running back Derrick Harmon of Cornell. Harmon's career rushing total of 3,004 yards was second only to Ed Marinaro at Cornell. He also rushed for 24 career TDs.

In 1983, Harmon ran for 1,206 yards on 216 carries and scored 10 TDs. He led the Ivy League in receptions with 36 catches for 270 yards. Against Columbia, Derrick rushed for over 200 yards and had a 7.8 yards-per-carry average.

Selected as the Ivy League's 1983 Player-of-the-Year, he also was named Academic All-America in 1982 and '83. Harmon was the Ivy League's Sophomore-of-the-Year in 1981. He maintained a 3.5 GPA while majoring in engineering physics. Harmon is a native of New York City, and was born April 26, 1963.

ROUND 10 — DAVE MORITZ, WR, IOWA

Hoping to repeat the fortune that brought them Dwight Clark in the 10th round of the 1979 draft, the 49ers selected wide receiver Dave Moritz in the 10th round of '84.

Moritz led the Hawkeyes in receiving in 1982 with 41 catches for 605 yards and three touchdowns. He followed that performance with a 50-reception, 862-yard, 17.2-average, five-touchdown season last year.

The two-year starter finished his career as the No. 1 ranked receiving yardage player in Iowa history, as he averaged better than 17 yards per catch while compiling 1,862 yards.

A swift, long ball receiver, Moritz set a Peach Bowl record with 168 receiving yards in 1982. The sturdy 6-0, 181 pounder teamed with current 49er vet John Harty on the Hawkeyes' 1980 team.

Among his '83 honors, the receiver was named All-Big Ten (by both AP and UPI), and third team AP All-America.

Moritz, the 275th player taken overall in the draft, also returned punts for the Hawkeyes during his junior season.

He was born June 12, 1962, in Evergreen, Ill.

ROUND 11 — KIRK PENDLETON, WR, BYU

The 49ers ended the 1984 college draft as they started it — by selecting a player from Brigham Young University. Kirk Pendleton, a 6-3, 191-pound wide receiver from Richfield, Utah, became the 307th player chosen when he was taken by the Niners in the 11th round.

A touchdown maker, the wide receiver scored 11 times during an equal number of games in '83. His 50 receptions and 810 yards in 1983 established career highs for the senior wide-out. He was a member of a prolific passing team at BYU that included quarterback Steve Young and tight end Gordon Hudson.

Pendleton prepped at Richfield High in Utah, where he was an all-state football and basketball player and a champion hurdler.

A married (Brenda Larsen in July, 1981) business major, Pendleton will compete with the 49ers' 10th round selection, Dave Moritz, for a spot in the wide receiver corps.

San Francisco, scheduled to pick 304th overall (24th in Round 11), passed three spots to 27th/307th before selecting Pendleton.

He was born April 4, 1962, in Salt Lake City.

COLLEGE ALL-STAR GAME

NFL led this series 33-9 when the game was discontinued following the 1976 season.

1984 NFL Rule Changes

Action taken to initiate new rules and/or clarify existing rules by NFL owners at their annual league meetings was as follows:

1. Linebackers may wear jersey numerals in the 90s.
2. Limit the procedure in which the referee starts the clock five seconds after a quarterback sack to the last two minutes of a half rather than throughout the entire game.
3. Make it illegal for a defender to take a running start from beyond the line of scrimmage in an attempt to block a field goal or point after touchdown.
4. A punter, placekicker or holder is to be penalized for unsportsmanlike conduct if he simulates being roughed by a defensive player.
5. Clarified the encroachment rule to have it in effect when contact is made by an opponent prior to the snap rather than by having a player line up in the neutral zone.
6. Players must wear a one-piece exterior stocking that combines solid white and individual team colors.
7. Permit offensive players to block opponents with extended arms in the pocket area on running plays. This pocket area includes contact made three yards beyond the line of scrimmage.
8. Clarified acts which will incur a five-yard penalty for unsportsmanlike conduct including: any prolonged, excessive or premeditated celebration by individual players or groups of players. (Exception: spiking by the scoring player will be allowed.)

The 49ers' Historical Highlights

Here are the team's historical highlights beginning with its first year in the NFL:

1950 — The 49ers fell flat on their faces in their NFL debut, winning only three games. A rival coach described them as "not big enough or tough enough."

1951 — In an amazing reversal of form sparked by a great rookie group, the 49ers were in the race to the final day and finished only a half game off the top. Led by Hardy Brown and his famed "shoulder tackle" the club had one of the toughest defensive units in the league. Y.A. Tittle and Billy Wilson began their great careers.

1952 — After a blazing start, the 49ers slumped in mid-season. Hugh (The King) McElhenny came off the University of Washington campus to become "Player of the Year" and the most feared runner in football.

1953 — The 49ers had their best NFL showing, 9-3, normally good enough for a championship. Detroit, however, was 10-2. Two of the San Francisco losses came with Y.A. Tittle sidelined because of a severe facial injury. The three defeats were by a total of nine points. Joe (Jet) Perry became one of the few players in pro history to gain more than 1,000 yards in a single season. Gordy Soltau was the league's top scorer for the second straight year.

1954 — Early momentum was broken by injuries to key players such as Y.A. Tittle, Hugh McElhenny, and Joe Perry. Perry gained more than 1,000 yards again, the first man ever to achieve this distinction.

1955 — With Hugh McElhenny hobbled by a foot injury, the 49ers had their second worst season in history under Norman P. Strader who succeeded Buck Shaw as a head coach.

1956 — In Frankie Albert's first year at the helm, the 49ers were bogged in last place at mid-season with a 1-6 record. They won four and tied one of their last five games for a brilliant stretch drive.

1957 — This undoubtedly was one of the most emotional and dramatic seasons in 49ers history. Every game was a "Cliffhanger" and the "Alley-Oop" pass from Y.A. Tittle to rookie R.C. Owens became a household byword. Emotions reached a peak when the beloved Tony Morabito collapsed and died of a heart attack at the Chicago Bears game on Oct. 27. Trailing 17-7, the 49ers fought back for a great victory, 21-17. The magnificent Billy Wilson caught a pass from Tittle for the winning touchdown in the fourth quarter. Tied with Detroit at 8-4 when the season ended, the 49ers lost the playoff game, 31-27, although they held a 27-7 lead in the third quarter.

1958 — An up-and-down season which finished on a high note when Green Bay and Baltimore were defeated in the last two games. The 6-6 record, however, was blackened by the 33-3 and 56-7 lacerations at the hands of Los Angeles and Frankie Albert resigned at the end of the year.

1959 — With Howard W. Hickey in charge, the 49ers were in contention all the way and John Brodie came into his own at quarterback when he led the team to a 21-20 upset of Cleveland. J.D. Smith, converted from a defensive back, became the second 49er to accumulate more than 1,000 yards rushing.

1960 — Hickey saved a seemingly hopeless season when he installed his Shotgun attack and the club captured four of the last five games to finish in a tie for second place. Third-string quarterback Bobby Waters threw the passes that upset Baltimore, 30-22, in the final two minutes.

1961 — The success of Howard W. Hickey's Shotgun amazed the football world, especially the 49-0 victory over Detroit. Quarterback Bill Kilmer, a passing-running rookie from UCLA, was made to order for the new offense. When the Shotgun was stopped, John Brodie took over again in the "T" and had the finest season in 49er QB annals. Indicating the evenness of NFL competition, the 49ers were playing for a second-place tie, plus a trip to the Runner-up Bowl at Miami, or a fifth-place position on the last day of the season. The Colts again won by three points, but 1961 must remain as one of the most exciting and interesting years in 49ers history.

1962 — For the first time since 1956, the 49ers finished a frustrating season with more defeats than victories. In so doing, the honored adage of "it's easier to win at home than on the road," proved false — the 49ers won only one of seven at home, but captured five of seven road contests.

1963 — Injuries in multitude to key personnel started the 49ers off to a disappointing 2-12 league season. One of the victories, however, was a smashing 20-14 upset of ultimate World Champion Chicago, the only league defeat suffered by the Bears all season.

1964 — Club chief executive Victor P. Morabito died of a heart attack in May. Injury to key personnel prevented the 49ers from gaining enough offensive momentum to forge a winning season although they proved to be one of the toughest defensive clubs in the league. Outstanding rookie performances by end Dave Parks, quarterback George Mira and linebacker Dave Wilcox also took some of the sting from the 4-10 overall record.

1965 — Outstanding offensive performances enabled the 49ers to jump from the bottom to fourth place in the Western Division as the team led the NFL in both scoring and total offense. John Brodie was the most productive passer in the NFL, Dave Parks led the league in receiving and rookie Ken Willard and veteran John David Crow, acquired in an off-season trade, led a strong ground game. The over-all record was 7-6-1 and the season-opening 52-24 beating of the Chicago Bears marked the largest number of points ever scored by the 49ers in NFL play.

1966 — After a somewhat slow start, the 49ers got in gear just before midway in the season and became one of only two teams to beat the eventual World Champion Green Bay Packers. After that, they rolled to a respectable 6-6-2 record and were in the battle for second place in the Western Division until the final league game. Guard John Thomas and end Dave Parks were all-pro, and they joined guard Howard Mudd, center Bruce Bosley, fullback Ken Willard and linebacker Dave Wilcox in the Pro Bowl.

1967 — An auspicious start (they were 5-1) disintegrated into disappointment for the 49ers as injuries took a heavy toll and a six-game losing streak took them out of the running. Quarterback George Mira came off the bench to lead the squad to two season-ending victories and salvage a 7-7 record. There were bright spots however, as, with John Brodie in fine form, the 49ers were the only team to beat the power-laden Rams in a league game, guard Howard Mudd and linebacker Dave Wilcox were named to all-pro teams, and Mudd and center Bruce Bosley played in the Pro Bowl for the second straight time.

1968 — Under new coach Dick Nolan, the 49ers posted a 7-6-1 record as the season turned on key wins over New York Giants, 26-10, and Green Bay, 27-20. Brilliant performances by QB John Brodie, receiver Clifton McNeil and running back Ken Willard led a prolific offense, while defensive tackle Charlie Krueger, linebacker Dave Wilcox and defensive back Kermit Alexander, sparked a revitalized defense. McNeil and guard Howard Mudd were chosen All-NFL, and joined by Wilcox, Willard and Alexander in the Pro Bowl.

1969 — Beset by injuries that nearly decimated the defensive unit, the 49ers struggled through the early part of the season, went five games before beating Baltimore, the first time they had done that in 13 previous games. It got a little better after that (final record was 4-8-2) and five players — Jimmy Johnson, Dave Wilcox, Elmer Collett, Ken Willard and rookie Gene Washington — were selected for the Pro Bowl. Johnson was also all-pro and winner of the Eshmont Award.

1970 — This was the greatest year since the club became a member of the NFL in 1950. The 10-3 record was the best as an NFL club, the Western Division (NFC) Championship was the first in the NFL. In a season of superlatives, John Brodie was the NFL's "Player of the Year," Bruce Taylor was NFC "Rookie of the Year," Coach Dick Nolan was a near-unanimous choice as NFC "Coach of the Year." Brodie, receiver Gene Washington, linebacker Dave Wilcox and cornerback Jimmy Johnson were all-pro and joined by tackle Len Rohde in being selected for the Pro Bowl.

1971 — The 49ers forged a 9-5-0 record and won their second consecutive NFC Western Division title, clinching the crown on the final day by beating Detroit, 31-27, the identical score by which the Lions had knocked the 49ers out of championship play in the bitterly-remembered 1957 game. The season was also the club's first in its plush new home, Candlestick Park. Center Forrest Blue, linebacker Dave Wilcox and cornerback Jimmy Johnson were all-pro and joined in the Pro Bowl by Ted Kwalick, Gene Washington, Vic Washington, Cedrick Hardman and Bruce Taylor.

1972 — Early-season inconsistency compounded by an injury to John Brodie in the fifth game of the season cast appall on 49er prospects for a third-straight NFC Western Division title, but Steve Spurrier stepped in for Brodie and turned things around with a brilliant, poised performance. In the final quarter of the final game the recovered Brodie relieved Spurrier and threw two TD passes for a 20-17 win over Minnesota that clinched divisional title No. 3, but Spurrier's nine-game contribution was the key. Center Forrest Blue, defensive back Jimmy Johnson, tight end Ted Kwalick, wide receiver Gene Washington and linebacker Dave Wilcox were all-pro selections.

1973 — In what was both a disappointing and significant year, the 49ers were 5-9 after tackling the NFL's toughest schedule and falling victim to a rash of key injuries and an unsettled quarterback situation. It also marked the end of the brilliant careers of quarterback John Brodie and defensive tackle Charlie Krueger, both of whom retired at year's end. Center Forrest Blue and Dave Wilcox were all-pro and joined in the Pro Bowl by Ted Kwalick, Woody Peoples and Tom Wittum.

1974 — The 49ers used five different quarterbacks after an injury to starter Steve Spurrier a week before the season opened sidelined him for most of the year. After winning the first two games the club lost a team record seven straight and then closed with a rush, winning four of the last five games to finish the season at 6-8. Running back Wilbur Jackson was named The Sporting News "Rookie of the Year" and was named to the NFL All-Rookie team along with quarterback Tom Owen and defensive back Mike Holmes. Center Forrest Blue and punter Tom Wittum were All-NFC and selected for the Pro Bowl along with Jimmy Johnson. A knee injury forced perennial all-pro linebacker Dave Wilcox to retire after a brilliant 11-year career with the 49ers.

1975 — A strong defensive performance throughout the season couldn't offset an erratic offense troubled by an unsettled quarterback situation and a rebuilding offensive line. High point of the 5-9 season was a 24-23 win over Los Angeles to end a 10-game losing streak to the Rams. At season's end, defensive end Cedrick Hardman was the club's only all-pro selection and only player chosen for the Pro Bowl. Jimmy Johnson became the club's first-ever two-time Eshmont Award winner.

1976 — A turnaround year for the 49ers as the team, under coach Monte Clark, posted an 8-6 record, their first winning season since 1972. With new quarterback Jim Plunkett at the controls, the 49ers got off to their best start ever, 6-1, before hitting a mid-season four-game losing streak that knocked the club out of playoff contention. The season saw the emergence of a powerful defensive unit that led the league in quarterback sacks with 61. Delvin Williams set a 49ers single-season rushing record with his 1,203 yards on the ground. Tommy Hart was named all-pro and played in the Pro Bowl along with Williams, Cleveland Elam, and Dave Washington. Center Randy Cross was an All-Rookie team selection. Tommy Hart became a two-time winner of the Eshmont Award and Cornerback Jimmy Johnson retired after a brilliant 16-year career with the 49ers.

1977 — In the 32nd year of their existence, the 49ers began an all new era. On March 31, 1977, the club became the property of Edward J. DeBartolo, Jr., and came under the guidance of Joe Thomas as general manager. The changeover was made more dramatic because the San Francisco 49ers were one of the few NFL franchises which had never previously changed ownership or location. On the field, under Coach Ken Meyer, the 49ers ran hot and cold. The club lost its first five games, then won five of the next six before dropping the final three contests for a 5-9 record overall. Strong safety Mel Phillips was named winner of the coveted Eshmont Award. Cleveland Elam was selected all-pro and played for the NFC team in the Pro Bowl.

1978 — The 49ers suffered through their longest season as the club fell to 2-14 in '78 and three coaches were hired and fired in less than 12 months. First, Pete McCulley departed after nine games with a 1-8 record, and his replacement, Fred O'Connor, was let go at the end of the year as the team won just one of its final seven contests. Bill Walsh was hired as the new Coach and General Manager on January 9, 1979, replacing O'Connor as coach and Joe Thomas as General Manager. Running back Paul Hofer, who replaced acclaimed O.J. Simpson when the newly-acquired star went to the sidelines for the year with a shoulder injury, was named recipient of the Len Eshmont Award.

1979 — The 49ers suffered through their second consecutive 2-14 season, but there were several indications of improvement. San Francisco went from virtually the worst ranked offensive team in the league in '78 to one of the most productive offensive units in the NFL in '79, ranking first in passing offense in the NFC and sixth in total offense in the NFL. Running back Paul Hofer again was the Len Eshmont Award recipient and individual leader, racking up 615 yards rushing and an additional 662 yards receiving on 58 catches in only seven starts. Quarterback Steve DeBerg broke Fran Tarkenton's NFL record for completions by connecting on 347 passes. Kicker Ray Wersching set a club record 83.3 field goal percentage, also leading the league with that mark. No 49ers were named to the Pro Bowl squad. O.J. Simpson retired from the 49ers and the NFL, finishing as the second leading rusher of all time with 11,236 yards.

1980 — In their second season of the Bill Walsh era, the 49ers showed gradual improvement in their rebuilding program. A three-game winning streak to open the season, combined with a three-game victory string from Week 12 through Week 14 enabled the Niners to post a 6-10 season, tripling the number of victories from each of the previous two 2-14 campaigns. Week 14 was a day when the 49ers made NFL history. That Dec. 7 in Candlestick Park, the 49ers overcame a 35-7 halftime deficit to the New Orleans Saints to win in overtime, 38-35. The 28-point comeback was the biggest points-margin-comeback in NFL history. Randy Cross at guard and Freddie Solomon as a punt returner were All-NFC selections by Pro Football Weekly. In addition, linebacker Bobby Leopold, defensive end Jim Stuckey and punter Jim Miller were named to All-Rookie teams, while another rookie, fullback Earl Cooper, led the NFC in receptions with a team-record 83, the most catches ever by an NFL rookie. Dwight Clark caught 82 passes to break the team wide receiver mark, and Joe Montana set the club passing percentage record at .645 with 176 completions in 273 attempts.

1981 — It was a year of firsts and bests for the 49ers in 1981. In his third season as head coach and general manager, Bill Walsh guided San Francisco to: a 16-3 record (best 1981 record in the league, fourth best in NFL history, and best ever for the 49ers), the NFC Western Division title (first since '72), the NFC Championship crown (first ever for the 49ers), and the World Championship/Super Bowl XVI win (first ever for the 49ers). Walsh was named to every possible NFC Coach-of-the-Year award and to all seven NFL Coach-of-the-Year honors, while six 49ers were named to the Pro Bowl — Dwight Clark, Randy Cross, Joe Montana, Fred Dean, Ronnie Lott, and Dwight Hicks). Three San Francisco players were selected to all-pro teams as recognized by the NFL — Cross, Lott and Dean. Montana, who led the NFC in passing in '81, was named MVP of Super Bowl XVI (for leading his team to a 26-21 win over the Cincinnati Bengals of the AFC). Dean was picked UPI NFL Defensive Player-of-the-Year, NFL Outstanding Defensive Lineman-of-the-Year (NFL Players Association), and NFC Defensive Player-of-the-Year (Kansas City Committee of the 101). San Francisco opened and closed the season in Pontiac, Mich., in drastically different styles. The 49ers lost two of their first three games of 1981, including that season opener on the road against Detroit, then ran off seven wins — before a loss to Cleveland 15-12 — and ran off eight more wins (including the playoffs, the NFC Championship, and Super Bowl XVI). The 49ers won 15 of their last 16 games, beat five opponents twice — including all three postseason foes — and became the first team since Chicago in 1945-46-47 to go from the worst NFL record (2-14 in 1979) to the league's best (13-3 in '81) in just three seasons. All this happened with three rookies (Carlton Williamson, Eric Wright, and Lott) starting in the defensive secondary. Those three rookies, along with Montana, Clark, Cross, Freddie Solomon, and Hicks; combined with "old veterans" Dean and Jack "Hacksaw" Reynolds to form a nucleus of world championship vintage.

1982 — The defending world champions — the San Francisco 49ers — did not enjoy the 1982 season . . . but then, not many NFL fans, coaches and players throughout the league did either (except maybe in Washington, where the Redskins were Super Bowl XVII champs). The Niners fell to 3-6 and missed out on the playoffs in the strike-shortened season. San Francisco went winless at home (0-5) but did manage a 3-1 road record (the Niners were 0-2 prior to the 57-day players' strike and 3-4 following it). Dwight Clark had an outstanding season, leading the NFL with 60 receptions and being named consensus all-pro (and NFL Player-of-the-Year by Sports Illustrated). Keena Turner (2nd team all-pro), Ronnie Lott (Pro Bowl), Randy Cross (Pro Bowl), Dwight Hicks (Pro Bowl), Keith Fahnhorst, and Joe Montana (NFL record for five straight +300-yard passing games) were bright spots in an otherwise disappointing season.

1983 — For the second time in three seasons, San Francisco played in the NFC Championship Game . . . and almost returned to the Super Bowl. The '83 49ers were 10-6 (3rd best regular season victory total in club history) and Western Division Champions (5th time since 1970, 2nd time since 1981). In the playoffs, San Francisco squeezed past Detroit, 24-23, but lost to Washington, 24-21, in the NFC Championship contest. The Niners blew past six teams by 15-or-more points, including Dallas, Minnesota, St. Louis and New Orleans. The bad news was a mid-season losing streak that included four defeats in five weeks, and the snapping of the club-record road string after eight wins. Individual standouts included: Joe Montana (the League's No. 1 all-time QB entering the 1984 season), Ronnie Lott (making his third Pro Bowl appearance in as many years), Fred Dean (leading the NFC in sacks with 17½), Dwaine Board (second in sacks with 13), Eric Wright (team leader in interceptions with seven . . . two for scores), Dwight Clark (team leader with 70 receptions and eight TDs), Freddie Solomon (club record 21.4 yards per catch), Ray Wersching (team record 126 points, including a perfect 51 of 51 PATs), offensive linemen Randy Cross, Keith Fahnhorst, and John Ayers, running backs Roger Craig (752 yards rushing, 427 receiving) and Wendell Tyler (856 rushing yards, 285 receiving), and NFL All-Rookie Team pick Riki Ellison (two interceptions in the playoffs).
